WE NOMINATE

The scores upon scores of Princetonians — including the 125 active members and aides and myriad others in all parts of the community — who have made it possible for the Princeton Hospital Aid Committee to compile one of the remarkable service records in Princeton's modern-day history. Currently contributing over 18,000 hours of voluntary work a year to the Hospital, this highly effective, energetic and largely unsung organization, which traces its origins back to the influenza epidemic of 1918, has played a pivotal role in the Hospital's continuing development and over the span of a half-century has provided some $370,000 in funds and equipment.

The records of the Aid Committee, now responsible for operating the Hospital's Aid and Gift Shops and for sustaining the perennially successful Fall and Spring Rummage Sales, document some three decades of gradual community growth as well as the pell-mell pressures of the past 20 years. It was in 1918 that the Borough's beloved Mayor, Dr. Charles Browne, asked the Visiting Nurses to organize and staff an emergency infirmary in a hospital-less town and then turned to the women of the community, asking for their assistance in finding funds to underwrite the miniscule beginning of what in 1968 is a major medical center.

Agreeing to pay the salary of the Hospital's first nurse, the Committee was formally brought into being in 1920 as the Hospital Aid and Salvage Committee with Mrs. Edward G. Spaulding serving as chairman, the post she was to hold until 1939. Down through the years, whether in the 1960's or the 1920's, the Committee's membership roster has been punctuated with the names of those who have bridged Princeton Past and Present and who have helped shape the Princeton of today. For instance, long-memoried Princetonians will recall most of the names of the founders: Atwood, Bunn, Constant, Covington, Duffield, Croll, Este, Goodrich, Lyons, Neher, Priest, Robbins, Robinson, Sayen, Slayback, Smith, Thompson, Tilton, Van Nest, Watts and Wintringer.

Although the Committee in the 1920's dropped the collection of salvage materials as being unproductive (and was subsequently incorporated as the Aid Committee), its reputation in the formative period was that the members "never missed a trick when it came to raising money for the Hospital." They "held rummage and bake sales, sponsored benefit movies and marionette shows, staged concerts, lectures and entertainments, besieged the townspeople with fund-raising 'Tag Days,' gave card parties, held subscription dances and sold magazine subscriptions for commissions." From 1927 until 1940, at 14 Chambers Street, they even operated for the Hospital's benefit a thrift shop known as The Attic which at its peak yielded net profits of some $6,000 annually.

With The Attic's closedown, the Committee turned once again to rummage sales as money-makers; only they began holding them twice a year, in the spring and fall. These enterprises, representing countless hours of tough work, averaged $1,200 each in the 1940's, $2,200 in the 1950's, $3,000 in the early '60's, while the recent 1968 Fall Sale brought in a record total of nearly $6,000. As the Hospital expanded, the Committee not only pledged $21,000 for a coffee shop but also offered to stock and run it.

For perpetuating and strengthening one of Princeton's invaluable assets — the volunteer spirit; for their dedicated service to Princeton Hospital and, through the Hospital, to the thousands for whom it is an all-important stronghold; these are our nominees as

VOTE "YES" ON BONDS

State's Needs Desperate. Voters in New Jersey will be asked to approve three vital bond issues on Election Day, November 5.

Transportation: $440 million in new highway construction and $200 million in new commuter railroad cars and equipment.

Public Buildings Construction: $100 million in construction of new state institutions and repair of others; $237.5 million to build new state colleges, expand those already in existence, enlarge the vocational radio and television stations for the entire state.

Housing Assistance: $12.5 million to encourage private investment in housing for depressed areas.

TOWN TOPICS urges a "yes" vote on all three bond issues. New Jersey's need in all these areas is critical — even alarming. The bond issues have bi-partisan support. Experts say that New Jersey is in a prime position to issue bonds. The state has an AAA credit rating because its debt level is only about 1% of personal income, compared to the national average of 4%.

Education. Is there a need? Consider education as a start. New Jersey is 50th among all the states in per capita aid to higher education. Other states call New Jersey the "cuckoo state" because just as the cuckoo deposits its eggs in another bird's nest, so New Jersey sends its young to colleges outside the state.

Why? Because there isn't room for them here. By 1975, there will be 220,000 New Jersey students ready for college. There is room, today, for only 40,000.

Half New Jersey's college age students are therefore, forced to go out of the state to college. Many others, who can't afford to go away, simply don't go to college at all.

Current enrollments in New Jersey colleges can be doubled by 1972, if the bond issue is passed, according to Ralph A. Dungan, Chancellor of Higher Education for New Jersey. With the new bond issue, full-time undergraduate enrollments at county colleges, state colleges, Rutgers and the Newark College of Engineering, can expand from 42,470 last year, to 94,300 — an increase of 122%.

Two new state colleges one in the north and one in the south, will be built with bond issue money. In Central New Jersey alone, bond issue money will provide space for 12,300 MORE full-time students by 1972.

Mercer County Community College, for example, can have its student enrollment doubled from 1,350 to 2,750 by 1972. The new campus would include a math and science building, engineering and technology building, business - commerce building, liberal arts building, library student center, physical education building and maintenance building.

Trenton State College could increase from 3,900 to 6,500 full-time students — a growth of 2,600 — through construction of a laboratory - classroom building and more parking spaces.

Hospitals. What about public institutions? A list of what's needed in New Jersey institutions reads like the greyest chapters in a Charles Dickens novel.

For example, at Trenton State Hospital, emotionally disturbed children and adolescents have to be housed in a ward with acutely psychotic adults because the children's ward is over-crowded. That over-crowded unit for children is in a 60-year-old building with electrical wiring 40 years old.

Trenton State Hospital, built 120 years ago, has frequent power failures because the 40 year-old wiring can't carry modern medical equipment. The core of the building isn't fireproof. One wing houses twice as many elderly patients as it was built for.

Glen Gardner, a state sanitorium, has no humidity-control system and no air-conditioning although it specializes in treating patients with chest diseases like tuberculosis and emphysema. It's 50-year-old infirmary is not only old, but over-crowded.

The hospital at Trenton State Prison lost its accreditation two years ago. In the prison itself, inmates are housed in widowless cells built in 1835 — almost 135 years ago — to accommodate one inmate each. Three of four inmates are now packed into those one man cells.

The prison's electrical system frequently fails and these failures are a constant threat to order and discipline in the prison.

New Jersey has 1,426 mentally retarded people waiting for admission to an institution — 99 of these people live right here in Mercer County.

Bond money would build a new facility — Somerset State School — with beds for a minimum of 500 retarded persons.

The money would also finance 21 day-care centers (one for each county) for children who don't require institutional care. New additions to existing centers would provide day care and also training, for retarded adults now confined to their homes.

Housing. According to the Department of Community Affairs, the housing bond issue would bring 5,000 new or rebuilt housing units into the state. The Prudential Insurance Company has already indicated that it will invest $18 million toward the financing of 1,000 units.

The bond issue would subsidize interest on the mortgage, or would provide interest-free second mortgages with payments deferred until 40 year Federal mortgages have been retired.

The idea is to provide rentals which low and middle-income families can afford.

Transportation. Ask any commuter. Ask him what the roads would be like if mass transportation dissolved completely and commuters had to take to the highways.

Bond money will buy 45 more high-speed electric cars to improve Penn Central suburban service between New York and Trenton. It would also pay for modern lines, stations and rail operations generally, throughout the state.

Bond money will also build highways. One publication of the New Jersey "Bonds Yes" Committee, says facetiously that there are airline pilots who can casually put a big jet down like a feather in a heavy fog, but are scared to death

Patience Pays Off

It took 15 years, but Mrs. Lorraine Mederios' habit of buying tickets in the Irish Sweepstakes finally paid off.

Last Friday, Mrs. Mederios, who lives on Alexander Road, Princeton Junction, and works at Educational Testing Service, received a wire noting her that one of her three tickets (one in her mother's name) had been drawn and matched to one of the horses in the race. The draw guaranteed her of winning at least $1,014.

Her horse, Principal Boy considered one of the favorites at 20-1, failed to finish in the top three, thus eliminating Mrs. Mederios from the big prizes of $120,000, $40,000 or $24,000 but she says she may still have a chance to win more. Whatever her final winnings are, she plans to save them for a while, and then put something down on a new car.

to drive New Jersey roads in broad daylight.

The $100 million will pay for widening and improving, and will also build new roads — among them, the Princeton 92-A bypass, if the comments of state officials turn out to be right.

New Jersey hasn't had a major road-modernization program for more than 30 years — since before World War II — and the state's three million cars are expected to proliferate to 4 million by 1978.

About the machinery — a "yes" vote on these bond issues will allow various state agencies to plan ahead. Bonds will be issued as needed over a five-year period when the bond market conditions are most favorable. The legislature will have to approve each individual project and its cost.

By issuing the bonds as needed, the state provides that future residents of New Jersey will help present residents bear some of the cost. Paying for everything out of current revenues — like the sales tax — places the whole burden on today's taxpayers.

The state legislature did not make any specific provision for paying off the bonds except to say that payments would be met over the years, out of current budgets.

Vote Yes! The bond issues are widely supported. The first organized opposition has come from SCANT (State Committee Against New Taxes), which predicts that the bonds will make a state income tax "inevitable."

SCANT also characterizes as "unnecessary" the $202.5 million for higher education.

Bond issues are supported by the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce, the AFL-CIO, the New Jersey Manufacturers Association, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, the State Bar Association, the New Jersey Education Association, New Jersey Bell Telephone, the League of Women Voters — and TOWN TOPICS.

CONTRACT RECEIVED

For Housing Study. The seed money contract for Borough middle-income housing has been received by Princeton Community Housing, Inc.

The contract from the state's Department of Community Affairs was dated October 10. P. C. H. now has 90 days to prepare architectural studies for presentation to the Borough.

These studies, now being made by Robert Geddes, P. C. H. architect, will show Borough officials how the apartment structure would look, how tall it is, and so on. It will also show how many apartments could be built, how parking garages would be handled and in what ways the project is economically feasible.

As a site, P. C. H. is exploring the Borough-owned parking lot on Spring-Witherspoon Streets, adjoining the public library.

SMOKE BUT NO FIRE

At Princeton Hospital. A general alarm that was sounded at 8:02 Thursday morning for a fire at Princeton Hospital gave the lie to the axiom where there's smoke there's fire.

Ptl. Thomas Michaud, who investigated the alarm, reported there was no fire. Police think that when the hospital boiler started, air conditioners pulled smoke into the building.

Donald Evans, public relations officer for the hospital, said that possibly atmospheric conditions at the time may have served as a blanket and kept the smoke, whatever its source, from escaping. No source was ever found, he added, but the smell of smoke was noticeable in the hospital. "To be safe, we sounded the alarm," he said.

THREE HALTED 30 DAYS

For Speeding. Four Princeton area drivers have had their licenses suspended for 30 days for speeding by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

They are S. S. Locantore, 55, 220 Edgerstoune Road; Mark W. Adams, 18, 74 Clay Street; and William M. Hike, 18, 224 King George Road, Pennington. Barbara A. Emmons, 21, of Cranbury, lost her license for one month for exceeding the point limit.

ONE DEAD, SIX HURT

In Route 206 Crash. A driving rain which caused a car to skid on Route 206 near Township Hall at 11 Saturday morning ended in death for one driver and injury to six persons in the second car.

Taken to Princeton Hospital with severe head and brain injuries was John J. Sadowski, 62, a maintenance man at the Princeton Inn. A resident of Nanticoke, Pa., Mr. Sadowski died eight and one half hours later.

Admitted in critical condition at the hospital were Sarah Bristol, 14, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lee H. Bristol, 210 Mercer Road, and Vana Felton, 12, of Rosemont, Pa., daughter of the other driver, Mrs. Zoe W. Felton, 35.

Sarah received a fractured skull and multiple lacerations of the leg; Vana, a collapsed lung. The hospital reported Tuesday that both girls are out of danger and progressing well. Sarah's father is president of the Westminster Choir College.

Mrs. Felton received a fractured rib and multiple lacerations. She is Mrs. Bristol's sister. Lucy Felton, 12, sustained a concussion, multiple lacerations and contusions, while Caroline Felton and Chip Bristol, both 9, were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

According to police, Mrs. Felton's 1964 convertible was traveling south on Routh 206 approaching the intersection of Valley Road when the Sadowski car, coming in the opposite direction, skidded broadside on the wet pavement into her lane. They described both cars as total losses.

Pfl. Howard Sweeney investigated. It was the fifth fatal accident for the Township this year.

Kingston Bridge Again. James E. Welsh, 28, of New Brunswick, joined the legion of motorists who have hit the Princeton Kingston bridge when he skidded into the span at 7:10 Saturday morning.

A passenger, Patrick Genito, received a fractured nose and jaw. He was taken to St. Peters Hospital in New Brunswick. Mr. Welsh was not injured.

Police said as Mr. Welsh's car approached the downgrade to the bridge, it began to slide on the wet roadway and skidded into the bridge. Pfl. Jerry Offredo issued no summons.

CHARGES FLY

Souter vs. Thompson. Tape-recorded sections of a speech made by Congressman Frank Thompson Jr. immediately after the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., have resulted in charges filed by the Congressman with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

Mr. Thompson's Republican opponent, Sidney S. (Sandy) Souter, is using parts of the taped speech in radio commercials. He said on Tuesday that he would "welcome" an inquiry into the commercials and would play the complete tapes for anybody who wants to listen.

The commercials give the impression that Congressman Thompson is soft on "law and order" and Mr. Souter, firm. The Congressman charges that his words have been taken out of context, and used to distort his position.

"We do not believe there is any distortion of his position and that his voting record and his public statements speak for themselves. We welcome a full disclosure of both," Mr. Souter said. A letter on the subject from Princeton University's President Emeritus Harold W. Dodds appears on page 23.

PRINCETON CAREER WOMEN are being honored with a display in Princeton Bank and Trust Company, arranged by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Princeton in observance of National Business Women's Week. Members and non-members of the BPW are featured. Mrs. Grace Downs of the BPW assisted in the display.

Congressman Thompson, at a Trenton press conference Monday, told reporters that the commercials distort what he said immediately following Dr. King's killing. He said he went to Trenton from Washington, D.C. after the assassination and, with Governor Richard Hughes, tried to cool Black leaders in Trenton.

He then came to Princeton at the Governor's request and spoke to members of the S.D.S. (Students for a Democratic Society) who had marched to "Morven" and were considering a solidarity march to Trenton. "I devoted the entire day in trying to bring about order," Mr. Thompson said at his press conference. He told reporters that the excerpts Mr. Souter is using are accurate, but that he objected to "the voice of my opponent" in the commercials, and the fact that the segments were taken out of context.

The quotes are: "I've turned my law office in Trenton over completely to arranging for the release of persons arrested in Trenton."

"We talked to four people this afternoon. Two Negro men, each of whom had been assaulted, in my judgment, by vicious policemen."

"I refused to walk by a national guardsman in order to say 'yea' or 'nay' or to answer as to my presence. I was one of a group who went to the Speaker of the House and said, 'For God's sake, get those troops away from here.'"

"You and I are all, especially all of us with white skin, every some with black skin, guilty of the ills that heslege our nation today. We all know that we have a civil war in this nation."

Mr. Souter's commercials say that Thompson encourages extremists, supports rioters, ridicules the police and "makes excuses for the bothheads."

Mr. Thompson told the press that the transcript — incomplete because the tape ran out — includes his statement to the students that members of his law firm were going from house to house, "offering assistance to the innocent victims of stupidity and bombing and burning."

He also stated that he urged SDS members to reject violence and "go out and get people to register and vote."

SCHOOL AGENDA

Meeting Next Tuesday. The Princeton Regional School Board will hold its October public meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Johnson Park School.

No changes have been made in bus routes since the September meeting of the board, stated John Wolfkeil, associate superintendent, in announcing Tuesday's agenda.

The Board may possibly hear, in its public session, a progress report on a Martin Luther King memorial project which is being prepared by Kenneth Mlsnael, principal of Princeton High School, and some of his faculty. If the matter is not ready for public presentation, it may be discussed in executive session, Mr. Wolfkeil said.

The board will be asked to approve "PRESTO," a student-teacher program with Rider College and Johnson Park School.

On November 11, the 25 members of the Middle Atlantic States Association High School evaluation Commission, will meet with the Board of Education. Over the three following days, they will make their investigation of Princeton High School.

Such an evaluation is made every ten years. A written report will be sent to the school board by the commission after its members have made their evaluation.

The board will adopt science texts for use in the Princeton schools.

News Of The THEATRES

NEW PLAY OPENS SEASON

At McCarter. When you walk into McCarter to see "The Village: A Party," you will see a splendidly handsome set designed by Robert Edmonds. Imagine a contemporary room the entire width of the stage, dramatic skylights above, dramatic windows rear, African sculpture, bar, couch. A great room for party-giving.

But the party itself is something of a disappointment. In this new play, premiered Friday night and now in the McCarter repertory, young playwright Charles H. Fuller Jr. sets before us a fully integrated community, "The Village," which was started on April 4, 1968. That's the day Martin Luther King was assassinated, although Mr. Fuller doesn't make a point of it.

The village was conceived and designed by a brilliant young black architect, Nick, who is the adored leader of the group. The white men and their black wives and the black men and their white wives, have gathered to give Nick a birthday surprise party.

They do not know, nor does Nick's wife, that Nick is leaving both his wife and the village because his growing awareness of his own blackness makes it impossible for him to continue with either white wife or integrated community.

Sounds like a tight enough frame for a play, with plenty of opportunities for black-white dialogue.

There is dialogue all right, but within a structure which is seriously flawed. Mr. Fuller seems undecided as to what his main theme will be, and he shifts the design of his play so radically toward the end, that the work is seriously dislocated.

Do we have a play of "Our Town" vignettes about five interracial couples, or a play about a creative black man with two opposing ideas fighting it out in his soul?

Mr. Fuller tries to carry these two strands together but he is unsuccessful. We end up not knowing enough about any of the couples — how did they meet? what are their backgrounds? what do they do for a living? do they have children? — but more important, we don't know enough about Nick.

His character is only fitfully drawn when it should have been developed in depth, line by line, scene by scene until his final tragic moment. We never know, for example, why this sensitive, dynamic man, obviously "aware" in every area of life, has only now become aware of his blackness. Has he taken to reading the newspaper, or what?

Because of the fitful nature of this character development, Nick's tragedy doesn't seem to grow out of his personality or the situation at all. It is not even "absurd" in the contemporary sense.

These two themes individual struggle and the inter-actions of the mixed couples — are played out during a party which is about as true to-life as you can imagine. Quarrels erupt and die, husbands and wives bicker, there is desultory dancing, all of course with racial commentary. And there is a wonderful card-game scene in which people move about the stage clearing ashtrays and setting up card-tables, pouring drinks and shuffling decks and then discovering that quite unconsciously, they have polarized: the whites are all at one table, the blacks at another. So there we are, party kibitzers. An unexpected act of violence takes place. Black out. Suddenly the play breaks — snaps as sharply as a broken bone. On opening night, the audience thought the play was over and everybody began to applaud.

But the lights come up and we are confronted with an entirely different kind of play. The characters leave the realism of the party, bring their chairs forward to face the audience, and discuss in a clinical and rather off-hand way, the crime they have just committed. It is jarring.

Another difficulty arises from the characters themselves. The white man, Cornish, symbolizes the inherent racism in whites. One black man says he's reached the point where he takes everything Cornish says as a racial slur, and well he might.

Cornish talks loudly of law and order, and makes a crude Aunt Jemima joke. It is hard to imagine any black woman marrying him; it is hard to imagine him moving into an integrated village.

Mark is another wrong note. He is a white policeman, placed in this play so one of the black men can needle him about being a cop and we get THAT side of race relations.

But a white American cop, thirty fortyish in age, married to a black wife and living in an integrated village? Very unlikely indeed.

The exchanges and interchanges among village residents are handled with great skill. Mr. Fuller has a true ear for dialogue, black or white or just plain humble.

For example, he has one of the men turn with typical male exasperation on a lady card-player who isn't quite sure she remembers how to play pinochle. When Nick tells Helen he is leaving her, the scene has the painful twist of life itself. And Mr. Fuller knows about parties — the unexpected silences that are always broken by somebody saying "Well, how about a drink . . ."

As Nick, Ed Bernard evokes the power and sensitivity of this idealist and he could have made Nick memorable indeed with Mr. Fuller's help. As Cornish, Robert Blackburn once again brings to McCarter's stage his great technical skill.

Anne Murray as Helen, Will Hicks as Mark the policeman and Susan Kaslow as Laura, the most sensitive of the whites, also return to McCarter with their usual competent portrayals.

Among the newcomers, Aldine King is delightful as Kate, a bubbling, little-girl wife who eschews an Afro hairdo for a school-girl bow at the back of her head. Leslie Rivers has the svelte glamour one would expect Cormsh to choose in a wife.

Director Arthur Lithgow keeps all ten actors moving easily around the stage like the champion chess-player he is. With Mr. Fuller, he has made adroit use of pantomime to show how the rest of the party is going on while a dialogue is in progress.

What, then, is Mr. Fuller telling us? In the program notes, he says "party" symbolizes integration and at the end, the party is to go on and on. Indeed it does: a knock comes at the door and a new couple enters, terribly and engagingly young, the boy black and tall, the girl blonde and small, both quite literally wide-eyed with hope. The village couples drink a toast of welcome and the play ends.

But in the course of the play, the village has become a prison. The couples at the party know they can never leave or they will be arrested for their crime.

Is Mr. Fuller then saying that integration is a prison for both black and white? And if a prison, then a party, too? The concepts are contradictory, and the message simply not clear.

JOIN THE GUILD

And See the Theatre. Members of the McCarter Guild are invited to a "special little celebration" next Friday at 11 p.m. after the opening of "The Glass Menagerie."

It's an Irish coffee party, and it will be held in the lower lobby of McCarter after the final curtain.

On Saturday, November 9 at 4:30 p.m. there will be a symposium on "What's Happening in Black Theatre?" It will be held in the McCarter rehearsal hall, and is free to members of the Guild.

Those who stay on to see a performance of "The Village: A Party" that evening, may stay even longer and discuss the play with actors and director after the performance.

Money from Guild memberships is spent each year to enrich the professional experience of McCarter's artists. This year, Guild money has been contributed toward the salary of a professional mime teacher, Mark Epstein, who will come from New York to conduct a series of 10 classes.

Mr. Epstein will coach with an eye to McCarter's production of "Oedipus the King," in which choral movement and the monumental gesture will be important.

Anyone who wishes to join the McCarter Guild may obtain information by calling Mrs. Gamble at 921-8588, or writing to the Guild in care of the Theatre.

JOYCE, ON FILM

"Finnegan," Mary Ellen Bute's film of "Finnegan's Wake," the James Joyce novel, will receive its first Princeton showing Tuesday at 8 at McCarter.

The film, released in 1967, will be shown at McCarter as part of the theatre's International Film Series.

The New Cinema series will proceed on Wednesday, November 6 at 8 p.m., with Rob-

IT'S NEW To Us

BE KIND TO GHOSTS . . . And Don't Scream. Halloween hordes of ghosts, witches, monsters, ghouls, hoboes, gypsies and walking pumpkins will soon be streaking through your leaf piles, pounding on your door with the shrill war cry of "trick or treat!"

This calls for a spurt of resourcefulness — particularly if you are chief costumer or planning to entertain.

Paper party plates with "Welcome 'Great Pumpkin'" on Lucius's sign, with Snoopy standing guard in the pumpkin patch are among Hinkson's party supplies. Witches are on another set.

At Happy House in the Princeton Shopping Center, there's a haunted house on some plates, with matching napkins and an extra large table cover. (All well under $1 each) They're scary and merry.

Since a lot of Halloween fun is the decorating the kids do themselves, Hallmark's table-size haunted house is at Hinkson's ready to be assembled. They have fat paper pumpkins that open out, cardboard cutouts of witches, spiders, skeltons and ghosts. At Happy House are crepe paper streamers for party trim; amusing, inexpensive party favors, and beautiful orange tapers trimmed with a bouquet of leaves and nuts.

Fruit of the Fields. Varicolored Indian corn, tied in bunches, is hanging up in front of the Food Mart on Witherspoon Street. This year, they have small shellacked pumpkins with faces painted on in addition to almost any size pumpkin you want to put a knife to. For table arrangements, there are some beautiful gourds and long squashes.

The mood of the season will inspire you when you see the great bunches of yarrow and wheat and cattails at Applegate Floral Shop on Palmer Square.

This is the time, while there is plenty of variety, to square away a supply of dried flowers and accessory pieces for winter arrangments.

Applegate's has bright-colored miniature star flowers, wood roses, locust pods, bandom nuts, lipstick pods, long stemmed dried artichokes, all kind of dried thistles and dried sea grape leaves. Most curious, and with a high potential for arrangements, are the big, flat dry mushrooms — some larger than your hand.

Mrs. Conley will guide you through the fascinating variety, and show you, too, the ceramic vases that are designed for the season.

There's a pumpkin 8" high that lights up merrily when you plug it into the wall socket. Either dry or fresh flowers fit into the cup in back. ($6.) Pumpkin-headed scarecrows lean against a pumpkin vase in ceramic for smaller arrangements. ($2.75 and $3)

What'll I Be? Costuming a high-gaited child will be a little easier after you browse around. At Hinkson's and Zinder's you'll find monster feet, bald pates, wigs, derbies, false noses and masks that range from super gruesome to sweet and lovely.

Center Stationers at the Shopping Center has those spook lights (devils and skeletons on sticks) that you place in your window or over the door. For an added eerie effect, the eyes blink. (79c)

Here you'll also find winged bats that children like to wear on their hands. The wings move when the fingers wiggle. Right next to them are dangling black spiders, wax for blackening teeth and a variety of plastic masks— some fierce, but many not so.

They also have party-favor scarecrow dolls (59c), cardboard cutouts of skulls and lots of plastic wall decorations — witches, pumpkins and the rest.

Stocking Up. If you want an easy-made jack-o-lantern, Woolworth's has them in plastic, wearing big hats. All you have to do is insert a bulb and plug in the cord. Nearby are boxes of costumes, ranging from strawman to fairy princess, and plastic and mache masks. You'll also find five full shelves of trick or treat candy, much of it packages of many small, wrapped pieces— such as the lollipop strips.

Louise Maas has a good supply of her famous "Halloween mix," small mint pumpkins and corn, in her Palmer Square shop.

"It's so very good that even I like it," claims Miss Maas, a chocolate fan. She also has cet Downey's 1968 film, "No More Excuses."

"ROSES"

"The Subject" to Open. Community Players' first production of the 1968-69 season, "The Subject Was Roses," will open this Friday at 8:30 in the auditorium of John Witherspoon School. It will play again this Saturday, and next Friday and Saturday, November 1 and 2.

Edmond LeCompte and Jessamin Zelnick will play John and Nettie, the middle-aged couple whose antagonisms finally break into the open when their only son returns from World War II.

Andy Bloch, a student at Princeton High School, will play Timmy, the son.

NEW "GLASS"

Williams' Play Is Next. "An illusion, a memory and therefore not realistic . . ." is the way Tennessee Williams described his play "The Glass Menagerie."

Director Gordon Phillips has promised McCarter audiences "the impressionistic version that Mr. Williams intended" when "The Glass Menagerie," opens this Friday at 8:30 as the second in McCarter's 1968-69 repertory series.

The cast of "Menagerie" is completely separate from the rest of the repertory company. The play has had the longest rehearsal time of any play in preparation so far.

Members of the cast, according to a McCarter spokesman, have made "intensive use of Stanislavski exercises to reach the deepest levels of their roles." All four members of the cast have worked in other productions of "The Glass Menagerie."

BALANCHINE

And the Pennsylvania Company. Two works by George Balanchine, "Concerto Barocco" to music by Bach, and "Symphony in C" set to Bizet's score, will be featured on the program of the Pennsylvania Ballet when the company comes to McCarter on Sunday, November 17, at 3 p.m.

The dancers will also perform in "Time — Plus," a work by the contemporary choreographer Anna Sokolow.

Single seats for the Pennsylvania dancers, and series subscriptions for all five dance events this season, are now on sale at the McCarter box-office.

Other companies are the Rumanian Folk Ballet, the City Center Joffrey Ballet, the Alwin Nikolais Company and the Princeton Regional Ballet.

"PICNIC" CHOSEN

By PDS Drama Club. William Inge's "Picnic" will be presented November 22, 23 and 27 by the Princeton Day School Drama Club, in a school theater production directed by Herbert McAneny.

The cast of the 1953 Broadway show will include Derry Light, Marlery Burt, Barbara Miller, Jane Wiley, Francine Barlow, Paula Zaitz, Rebecca Ramsey, Chris Reeve, Robert O'Connor, William Flemer and Timothy Smith.

FINAL PLAY PLANNED

In Prevue Players' Season. "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be the final production of the Prevue Players' Fall-Winter Season, to be presented December 20 and 21 at 8:30 p.m. in the St. James Auxiliary Church Auditorium.

Chicken On The Wing

That dead, plucked chicken is at Center Stationers and at Hinkson's. Made of flexible rubber, and about three feet long, it is so realistic that you'll recoil.

After Halloween, the way kids are, it's going to be thrown around in the wildest games of catch you've ever seen. There is something about the sight of a dead, plucked chicken hurtling through the air . . .

It's New To Us

witches' 'candy brooms and loads of lollipops.

It is a sign of the times, that most of her Halloween novelty candies have gone from the shelves and that customers are inquiring about Chocolates for Christmas gifts. "I bought more Halloween things this year, but people are buying so early I don't know what I'm going to do!" she says in happy perplexity.

Thorne's drug stores have, in the candy line, a 1-lb. Russell Stover mix of butter buns, pecan roll caramels and fruit candies. (1.85) Also those Pez monster candy dispensers, featuring ghouls and skeletons. And spook sticks, too.

Peanuts are a great answer to trick or treat supplies, and Cox's has a small mountain of them, fresh roasted, at 55c a pound. They also carry an excellent apple cider, made over in Masonville.

And you can count on the Bali Bakery in the Shopping Center to carry a supply of Halloween decorated cup cakes (10c each) and butter cookies with chocolate and candy trim. And there, too, you'll find gingerbread men (10c), and very good.

Spook Stories. There's a certain age — maybe about 8 to 11 — that loves to be scared by ghost stories. "Thrillers and More Trillers," a batch of short stories by Stevenson, Poe and modern writers, is at the children's department of the Princeton University Store. (2.95)

Also eleven spooky stories in "Alfred Hitchcock's Ghostly Gallery." Pointed toward the 8 to 12 group, it could be read around to younger children who enjoy a little chill.

Miss Emma Newman recommends for the same group "The Mystery of the Moaning Cave" and "The Mystery of the Screaming Clock," two Random House publications, priced at $1.95. Both are new this fall.

She also, looking through the shelves, has some Halloween thoughts for the younger fry, who like lots of pictures and a good story. There's a picture book marvelously illustrated by Joan W. Anglund of Grimm's story "Nibble, Nibble, Mousekin." And "The 14th Dragon" for age 3 up. (There's a lot more story to it than in most.")

Another is "Gabhy's Magic Brooms," about a witch named Gabadale and spooks and the mayor — for pre-schoolers, amply illustrated. And, of course, "The Witches' Secret" by Frances Allen — for ages "Six to perhaps eight or nine." ($3.50)

Eglantine Avenue, Pennington.

Auditions for the lead roles of Amahl, the three kings and the Mother will be held Sunday from 1:30 to 3 p.m. for children and from 3 to 5 p.m. for adults, at the church. Those interested should bring their own tryout material.

Chorus applicants should contact Robert R. Sine, at Hopewell Valley Central High School, before Sunday.

WICKED WITCH COMING

For Halloween. The archtype of all Wicked Witches — the one in "Hansel and Gretel" — will stop off in Princeton next Wednesday, October 30, for a seasonal appearance in Humperdinck's opera at McCarter Theatre.

"Hansel and Gretel" will be sung in English by singers of the Princeton Opera Association. For the convenience of the audience, many of whom have previous commitments to an early bed, performances will be given at 3:30 and 8 p.m.

For this production, McCarter and the P.O.A. have assembled singers, a children's chorus, a ballet of the "Fourteen Angels" by members of the Princeton Ballet Society and an orchestra conducted by Igor Chichagov.

The Witch has been doublecast: Bette Beltz at the matinee performance and Virginia Cole in the evening. Deborah Truxel will sing Gretel at both performances. Mary Alice Witty will be Hansel at the matinee and Ruth Mattern will sing the role in the evening.

S. T. Kimbrough will be Father, Muriel Long will be Mother, Edith Wilson the Sandman and Mary Ecroyd the Dew Fairy.

PLAYHOUSE & PRINCE

Barbarella (held over) is a comic strip satire that pokes at sex, the bomb, the pill, religion and philosophy.

Jane Fonda never departs from her appealing but never real comic strip dimension. Milo O'Shea is outstanding as The Concierge of the paradise of evil, and for some reason, John Phillip Law is beautiful as the angel.

Photographed in muted color, there are strange other planet landscapes, wierd cinemative effects, exploding finally in a bubbly red apocalypse. And, in spite of the advertising, the sex scenes and nude scenes are detached and clinical.

GARDEN

West Side Story (now playing). A re-run of the excellent film version of the Broadway musical.

There is a great vitality to this show — from the wild dancing of the young hoods on the tenement roof to the loyalties and blood feuds that choke a budding love. Natalie Wood is Maria, Russ Tamblyn is the outsider who loves her. The dramatic photography adds to the suspense.

Racial Incidents Erupt at Princeton High School and University

BLOWS STRUCK AT PHS

Two Students Dismissed.

Two students at Princeton High School have been expelled and 15 others have been suspended from one day to indefinitely in the wake of friction between white and Negro students which surfaced Thursday. Police reported other incidents on Friday and during the weekend.

"We are not going to tolerate fighting in public streets," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan at his Tuesday morning press conference. "We're not going to keep on warning this small group which is causing all the trouble; where arrests can be made they will be made. Charges will be processed and sent to the courts."

The most serious outbreak of trouble took place Thursday afternoon around 3:15 when a group of white and Negro students lined up on opposite sides of Houghton Road next to the school and then began fighting. Pfc. Robert Muccarelli, patroling the area in his squad car, radioed for assistance. Pfc. William Hunter, Timothy Huizing and Detective John J. Bellow from the Borough and a Township patrol car arrived and broke up the fight. Police said blows were being struck when they first came.

"It was more than just a shoving match," said Principal Kenneth Michael. Both he and the police reported that no one was injured to the extent of requiring hospital treatment.

According to police, one boy, after he had been hit several times by Negro youths, took a bow and arrow from his car and threatened his attackers. He has been charged by the police with possession of a deadly weapon. He told police he had been threatened with a knife. Police acknowledged that a knife was found at the scene.

Police have taken the names of 12 white students and 10 Negro. The fight is still under investigation and Lt. Michael Carnevale reported that charges are being prepared, pending completion of the investigation.

Most will be charged as with juvenile delinquency. Those over 18 will be charged as adults, police said. Police said at least one of those involved was no longer a student at the school.

Mr. Michael said that the two expelled from the school were those whom the school felt were primarily responsible for the fight. Those suspended indefinitely, he said, would remain suspended "until they realize their attitudes are causing this problem. "In each case," he said, "the judgment was made not only with reference to this most recent incident but also the way they had been conducting themselves in the past." He described the situation at the school since then as "very quiet."

About an hour before the fight, police received a call from a resident, reporting that a large group of Negroes and whites were milling around and threatening to fight. Two patrol cars, a motorcycle and a Township car were dispatched but by the time police arrived, the crowd had been broken up by Joseph Drulis, high school disciplinary official, and other staff members.

Chief McCrohan, who was in Hawaii attending a conference at the time, reported that the police don't know what touched off the fight. Both he and Lt. Carnevale, however, said that there is a small group of white and Negro students who are always starting trouble. "Unfortunately, they seem to be successful," he said.

Five Juveniles Arrested.

The following day, Friday, police had additional patrols on the streets around the high school.

In the afternoon after school, they arrested five juveniles and confiscated their homemade weapons, including a knife, club and chain on a stick. All were under 18 and each had been in the original group suspended from school the day before.

Of these, two were sent to the County Jail, charged with possession of weapons and three were released to their parents. Taking part in the arrests were Lt. Carnevale, Detective Bellow and Patrolmen Charles Harris, Bernhard Lenhardt and Ronald Holladay.

The same afternoon at 3, Robert M. Wright, 21, of North Mill Road, Cranbury, told Borough police he had stopped his car in the line of traffic on Nassau Street opposite Marsh's Drug Store, when two Negroes approach either side of his car.

One punched him in the face under the left eye, he said, leaving a small laceration. Pfc. Huizing accompanied Mr. Wright on a search and he picked up Lynwood Ferguson, 18, 248 John Street, who police said Mr. Wright identified as the one who had punched him, and John Duncan, 19, 87 Birch Avenue. Both were brought to headquarters and questioned by Detective Robert McAvenia.

An assault complaint was filed against Ferguson and the case will be heard in Borough court on Monday.

Ewing Youths Arrive.

Late Friday evening, around 11:15, police received calls reporting that several cars had parked in the taxi stand area opposite Palmer Square and some 30 white youths had jumped out and were walking down Nassau toward the Garden Theater, looking for a fight. Police said the youths, all from Ewing, were trying to atone for the assault of two of their friends by Negroes in Princeton. Police said the report was unfounded.

They were intercepted by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Pfc. Jackson and Pfc. Hunter. They managed to quiet them down and after taking their names and addresses, escorted them back to their cars and out of town. Police did report one 16-year-old juvenile from Ewing had been charged with assaulting a Negro in Princeton.

Still later, at 11:48, a group of Negro boys and girls, estimated at 50 to 100 assembled at Nassau and Witherspoon Street. Once again, police were able to get them to disperse. Chief McCrohan credited the squad led by Sgt. Procaccino with being instrumental in preventing the outbreak of fighting.

SERIOUS FIGHT AVERTED

At Princeton University.

A series of racial slurs at Princeton University last weekend nearly brought white and black students to physical conflict before the administration brought both sides together to examine the incidents.

The trouble began Thursday evening, as a black junior, Reginald Peniston, asked university proctors to quiet a boisterous party in the Walker Hall rooms, known traditionally as "Rockefeller Suite," lived in by members of Cannon Club. After the proctors left, Mr. Peniston said urine was thrown at him from a window of the suite and that he heard several racial epithets.

The following night, after Mr. Peniston and five other members of the Association of Black Collegians (ABC) had gone to Cannon Club to express anger over the incident, Mr. Peniston heard more racial slurs coming from the Rockefeller Suite in Walker.

Late Saturday night some 20 black students went to the suite to demand an apology, according to Mr. Peniston. Several arguments and limited property damage resulted before three proctors and a campus policeman arrived to persuade the blacks to leave. The hall was locked and guarded by proctors for the rest of the night.

Five black students and eight of the Rockefeller Suite's twelve members met Sunday afternoon for almost two hours in an effort to stop the racial trouble. Dean of Students Neil L. Rudenstine asked the student-faculty discipline committee to investigate the incidents, and said a report would be filed with the administration next week.

But according to junior Howard Bell, communications chairman for the ABC, the racial trouble is much deeper than white observers had supposed.

"As unfortunate as it may sound," Mr. Bell noted, "name-calling incidents are not uncommon on this campus." He added that in past years a number of smaller black students had been "picked on" by whites. Princeton's undergraduate enrollment of some 3,300 now includes 97 blacks.

"We think it's best to try to stop racial trouble now," Mr. Bell said, "before hotheads on both sides make something worse occur." He confirmed charges that several of the black students who entered the Cannon Club suite Saturday night had been carrying knives, and said that two couches and two stereo speakers had been slashed.

A Cannon Club resolution Sunday night condemned "any act of a racist nature perpetrated by any member" of the Princeton community, and urged an end to "physical violence." Members of the Rockefeller suite also made a formal apology to black students at the Sunday afternoon meeting.

But Mr. Bell commented, "Much as we hope this is the last incident of this kind to happen, we have to recognize that other incidents may occur. We are trying to avoid any physical violence, but if we are threatened, we are not going to crawl into the woodwork. The incidents of last Saturday night showed that we are prepared to retaliate if necessary."

Payment for damage to the Walker Hall suite has yet to be worked out. Although Mr. Bell said it appeared "likely" that members of the suite would pay for the damage themselves, Dr. Rudenstine said Tuesday that several of the white students were considering making formal legal charges with the police.

Dr. Rudenstine said he had urged the suite to let the university's discipline committee resolve the issue without outside interference. University action against either or both of the parties will not come until after the discipline com-

SHOPPING CENTER FINED

But Will Appeal. The Prince ton Shopping Center will ap peal a $100 fine last week by Township Magistrate Glen Miller.

After the 90 minute hearing, Magis trate Miller found the Center guilty of violating the Tow nship's ordinance on the repair and maintenance of parking lot surfaces. The ap peal has been taken to Mer cer County Court.

Attorney Garrett M. Heher, repre senting the Shopping Cen ter and George Warnecke, its owner, pointed to the complete re surfacing job done by the Center at a cost of $55,000, claiming that under the ordin ance, the Center was only re quired to fill pot holes at a cost of $14 20,000.

At issue is a disputed defini tion of the phrase "state of good repair" in the ordinance. Also, the Township says the Center was dilatory in comply ing with the ordinance. W. Joseph Shinn, building inspec tor, informed the Shopping Center in October, 1967, that the ordinance had been passed, and the Township claims that the Center could have obtained bids during the winter season so that work could begin in the spring.

Bids were obtained in April for pot-hole filling, Mr. Heher stated. Then Mr. Warnecke decided to do a complete job and obtained those bids in late June. His representative wrote to Mr. Shinn on July 2 that they were waiting for bids, but were informed by the zoning officer that it was too late. The complaint was filed July 8.

TO SHARE SEWER PLANT

Princeton, Montgomery Princeton Township will use about one-third of a new Mont gomery Township sewer plant under terms of an agreement approved conditionally by Princeton Township Committee Monday night.

The condition is that Mont gomery apply for Federal funds to build the plant and its lines before construction act ually begins, and obtain either a "yes" or "no" from Federal authorities.

Administrator Joseph R. Nini told Committee that munici palities can get as much as 80% of construction costs, but considering the competition for money these days, about 40% is a more realistic hope.

Princeton Township is anxi ous to have Montgomery ap ply for outside money because the Township is agreeing to pay one-third the cost of con struction, if Montgomery builds a 300,000-gallons-per-day plant.

Under the agreement, the Township will buy 100,000 gal lons per day of those 300,000, and will install and pay for the flow meters that clock the amount of sewage the Town ship spills into the treatment plant.

The new Montgomery treat ment plant, its trunk lines and connector lines will serve pro perties in the northern part of Princeton Township along Hill side Avenue and Cherry Val ley Road. It will also eventual ly serve the nursing home that is planned for that section of the Township on Mt. Lucas Road.

When the new Montgomery plant is in operation, Prince ton will abandon the package treatment plant now in use in the area.

More Money! Princeton Township's share of New Jer sey state sales tax money for 1969 will be $41,177, Mr. Nini reported.

When Miss Helen Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, asked what the Township plannd to do with the money, Committeeman William Wilson said the allotment would probably serve as the "basis" for the 1969 budget, and could either be used to help reduce taxes, or for some special project.

Also, the Township will pick up $61,212 more in taxes as a result of $950,000 more in ratables, Mr. Nini announced. Of the $61,212, $15,300 will go to Mercer County, he said.

The new ratables represent about one-half new construction, one-half improvements, explained assessor Stuart Robson. "Mostly it's porches, new swimming pools, additions to a house," he said.

Big construction, like the new car wash and the addition to Opinion Research Corporation, will not boost the tax intake until next year, Mr. Robson said.

Dogs? Committemen promised to talk about dogs in executive session. Mr. Wilson said Committee would probably introduce a dog ordinance simply as a basis for public discussion, but aside from promising "soon," nobody would name a date.

Committee passed the ordinance prohibiting parking on the new alignment of Franklin Avenue between Walnut Lane and the Borough line.

The state has refused to reduce the speed limit on Route 27, the Princeton-Kingston Road, Mr. Nini reported. State traffic officials said their count showed 92% of the motorists traveling at or under 46 m.p.h. in the 45 m.p.h. zone — well within the allowed margin.

United Fund at 52%

With $240,931 raised by Monday, the United Fund had achieved 52% of its goal of $460,297.

The quota for each division and the total raised to date follow: Research, $61,536 of $140,000; special gifts, $115,000 of $130,000; professions, $20,355 of $38,000; mercantile, $3,800 of $12,000; Princeton University, $13,900 of $46,000; Building Trades, $3,650 of $8,000; Shopping Center, $640 of $4,000; Education, $3,900 of $15,000, and area camaign, $18,150 of $22,000.

POLITICS

Township Only. The Borough's Councilman campaign continued its quiet way this week: Democratic candidates Mrs. Raymond F. Male and James Andrews, and Republican candidates Foster Jacobs and Michael Erdman continued to ring doorbells and drink coffee, but tough-talking campaign statements seem to have petered out.

In the Township, politics turned up at Township Committee Monday night. Administrator Joseph R. Nini read a letter addressed to Committee by the two Democratic candidates, Thomas B. Hartmann and James A. Floyd, urging formation of a Conservation Commission for Princeton Township.

Such a Commission is authorized by a new state law passed on August 6 and designed to protect a community's natural resources.

The candidates charge in their letter, that under the "present unsatisfactory situation, such work is carried out by diverse groups with no unified purpose or direction." They propose a Commission authorized to keep a record of open land, develop information on the proper use for such areas, and to buy land or receive it as a gift and administer it.

Mayor Carl C. Schafer, running for re-election on the Republican ticket, commented on Monday night that the proposed Commission sounds like the Township's Open Space Commission, which has been operating under an ordinance passed in 1962.

Committeemen cited money already spent by the Township on to acquire Open Space, and the designation of other lands as "open space" on the Township's Master Plan maps.

The Township attorney, Gordon Griffin, suggested Monday night that the Township's open space ordinance might be adapted to the state's new law to provide "strong legal underpinning."

In a statement this week, Mr. Schafer and his running mate, Burton Peskin, also seeking re-election, promise to urge the Joint Recreation Board to develop plans for Community Park north of Route 206.

The will recommend consideration of an ice-skating and hockey arena, a craft center and more team-sport facilities.

"Every possible facility" should be open to the public free of charge, the candidates say. "Only major recreation centers such as the swimming tennis complex should defray operating and maintenance costs by charging modest fees," they state. "Nine out of ten Princeton recreation facilities are and should be open to the public at no cost. Where fees are necessary, they must be kept to a minimum."

Their challengers, Democrats James F. Floyd and Thomas B. Hartmann, suggest this week that "the problems of Princeton are those of towns in which one party is entrenched. We are concerned that the present committee seems to feel that problems will 'just go away' and the best way to handle Township matters is 'to do the same old thing'."

"It would be a good thing for the community to have someone there to say 'maybe'.

you should do it a different way!"

MORE ON WEDNESDAYS

Questionnaires Keep Coming. A paid employee, working half-time, will go out into the Princeton community starting November 1, to follow up the responses to the Wednesday Afternoon questionnaire that was sent out by the Princeton Regional Schools' Wednesday Council.

Parents who want more information about "Wednesdays" will probably find their questions answered in a comprehensive report which will be available next Tuesday at the October meeting of the school board, said Dr. Constance Vieland, chairman of the Council.

Also, Dr. Vieland will be available by telephone at 924-9031 between 9 and 10 a.m. this Friday and next Friday to answer parents questions.

More questionnaires have been returned to the Council since last week's progress report. To date, 357 have been returned out of the 7,000 mailed.

Dr. Vieland repeated the Council's appreciation of community response to the questionnaires.

"We're happy that the community is concerned in this positive way about our program," Dr. Vieland said.

Some Hardship. She reported that 306 of the 357 returned questionnaires are from parents of school children. Of these, 119 want some planned activities for their children.

There are 42 mothers who find the Wednesday afternoon closing a hardship, Dr. Vieland said; 28 are working mothers of elementary school children, 14 are working mothers whose children are in the Middle School.

The new part-time employee, whose name will be announced next week, will visit these working parents for whom school closing is a hardship. Dr. Vieland said this helper will match up children and activities to make sure the right child gets the right one.

Title I money is available, Dr. Vieland revealed, for some children who cannot afford to pay the fees involved in certain kinds of community activities.

So far, there are 46 questionnaires that call for followup, besides the 42 "hardship" questionnaires, Dr. Vieland said. These are replies from parents who offer volunteer time and help in various projects, parents who have many ideas about things the children might do (one parent had about a dozen ideas) and parents who want more information.

TRAINING SESSIONS HELD

For Sex/Ed Program. Approximately 75 teachers from the Princeton community have been attending a series of seminars on sex education, conducted by Dr. Gere Fulton, coordinator of Health education at Trenton State College.

The focus of the program is to take sex education beyond the health education approach into a broader perspective on the psychological, personal and social development of the individual.

Program planning is an outgrowth of the efforts of the Princeton Area Committee for Sex Education, whose teacher training sub-committee is led by Dr. Willard Dalrymple, director of medical services at Princeton University. Also taking part were the resources sub-committee, under Dr. Frances Arthur, one of the founders of the PACSE. Curriculum assistance has been provided by Mrs. Dorothea Lumis of the Princeton Regional Schools and Mother Cecelia Bush of the Stuart School of the Sacred Heart.

The five-week seminars are being held from 3:30 to 5:30 on Wednesdays in the John Witherspoon School. Kindergarten through 12th grade teachers, on alternate Wednesdays.

Representatives are enrolled from the Lawrenceville School, Chapin School and each of the Princeton Regional Schools.

They represent all departments in the high school and include teachers of music.

This is a Princeton Property Tax Bill. Color it pretty high.

Can you find the relationship between the pictures? Tom Hartmann and Jim Floyd believe it's time to make the connection between a barren Research Park and your rising property tax.

They would work hard on Township Committee to attract proper ratables and help stabilize your tax rate. In this way we can keep a high standard of education and local services and you'd have help paying the bill.

This broader representation, beyond the departments of health and physical education, is indicative of the changing viewpoint towards sex education, which is moving beyond diagrams of reproduction into considerations of inter-personal relationships.

FUND APPEAL BEGINS For Princeton Hospital. Nearly 30,000 fund requests have been mailed to residents of Princeton Hospital's tri-county service area, as the 241-bed institution seeks $300,000 in its 1968 Fund Appeal, to be used as financial capital.

Bond-Aids, supplied by Johnson & Johnson in New Brunswick, are included in the requests, which explain that the hospital provides many services beyond first aid. In announcing the 1968 drive, hospital president George W. Conover pointed out that the hospital has spent more than $4 million in the last two years on new health care facilities, much of which was borrowed and is not covered by hospital bills.

The capital funds appeal will continue through February, headed by Frederick M. Lawrence, chairman of the trustees' Resources Committee. Mr. Lawrence said that because of its greater need for capital funds this year, the hospital has withdrawn from the Princeton United Community Fund, which is restricted to raising operating funds.

This year's drive is the third annual campaign made by the Hospital. Both previous campaigns were over subscribed, Mr. Lawrence said.

DECAVALCANTE INDICTED On Weapons Charge. The Union County Grand Jury last week indicted reputed Mafia leader Simone (Sam the Plumber) DeCavalcante, accused of receiving a stolen pistol, a .38 caliber Derringer worth about $30.

Already under federal indictment for an alleged shake down in Bucks County, Pa., Mr. DeCavalcante, who lives at 1015 Mercer Road, was arrested on the weapons charge July 18, when state troopers and Union County detectives stopped him off the Garden State Parkway at Kenilworth.

The gun, reported stolen from Lower Bucks Safety Brake, Inc., in Fairless Hills, Pa., more than a year ago, was found in the Kenilworth offices of the 55-year-old Mr. DeCavalcante, who operates the Kenworth Corporation air-conditioning firm, and the Control Heating Corporation. A FBI raid on the offices allegedly uncovered the derringer in a desk drawer.

Following the raid, the FBI arrested Mr. DeCavalcante on a charge of complicity in the shakedown of gamblers at a motel outside Philadelphia. Indicted with two residents of Brooklyn in that case, Mr. DeCavalcante is now free on $50,000 bail.

REPUBLICANS' "NO DINNER" DINNER: Uncommitted voters and Democrats will be invited to private homes ($25 per couple) as a change from the traditional Republican fund-raising dinner. "Reach the Other Guy" dinners will be held October 30, the Republican Club supplying chicken and champagne. Congressional candidate Sidney Souter will address the groups on radio at 8:30. Planners (left to right) are Mrs. John M. Weber, Mrs. Edward R. Farley Jr., Mrs. Frank P. Reiche and Mrs. Charles L. Jaffin.

Rain finally caught up with us earthlings Saturday, bringing better than an inch to the parched countryside.

Showers are a possibility Friday and maybe again on Sunday, the Man reports. The thermometer is due to follow a lower trend, but nothing really radical yet. Temperatures will run a bout normal (a mean of 56 degrees) through the week end.

Lawrenceville, $10, and Mrs. Diane Wilfrid, 21, 227 B Marshall Street, $16. Mrs. Susan W. Marcus, 22, Magic Apartments, and Willard K. Smith, 14 Carter Road, paid $15 and $12 for stop sign infractions.

Careless driving cost John C. Becker, 44, 48 Mercer Street, $156, while Paul Spector, 18, 33 Whippoorwill Way, Belle Mead, paid $10, no license in possession.

In criminal court Florence Goldsmith, 264 Nassau Street, pleaded not guilty to passing a worthless check for $23 at a Nassau Street service station. She was fined $10 and $10 court costs.

In Township court last week, Magistrate Glen B. Miller Jr. fined William H. Flagg, 30, of 225 Morrison Avenue, Hightstown, $265 for driving while on a revoked list. Willie E. Mathis, 40, 156 John Street, paid $10 for careless driving, and Richard A. Meservey, 72 Dorann Avenue, paid $10 for failing to yield after stopping at a stop sign.

Five were fined for violating the Township's dog ordinance. Edward E. Faroe, 8 Turner Court, and Lionel Friedman, 193 Terhune Road, were fined $10 and Theodore G. Kane, 820 Princeton-Kingston Road, and Morris Handelsman, 27 Tyson Lane, were fined $12 for allowing their dogs to run loose on school property.

Charles R. Stahl, 548 Stockton Street, paid two fines: $20 for allowing his dog to run loose after receiving written notice to confine his dog to his property, and $15 stemming from a complaint signed by a Township resident.

The state's Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended for 30 days the licenses of five area drivers for speeding. They are John Zullo, 34, 22 Witherspoon Street; Henry W. Wilson, 48, Carter Road; Leo V. Ehly, Jr., 20, of Hopewell; Michael S. Strezelecki, 43, of Cranbury; and Charles L. Marciante, 20, of Pennington.

Two were halted under the point system. Elias B. Baker 3d, 23, 142 Mercer Street, lost his license for 45 days, and Ingrid H. Peterson, 22, 30 Boudinot Street, for one month.

POLICE NAB INTRUDER

Inside Hamilton Avenue Home. Chief Peter J. McGrohan credited a timely telephone call from a borough resident for the capture and arrest Friday evening of a burglar.

A combined force of Borough and Township police found Jerry Lee Burnett, 23, of Trenton, hiding behind a sofa on the first floor in the home of Alexander Everline, 15 Hamilton Avenue. Charged with breaking and entering, Burnett waived a preliminary hearing before Judge Theodore T. Tuma Jr. Monday. He was held for action by a Grand Jury in $5,000 bail and placed in Mercer County Jail.

After receiving the call from a neighbor who knew Mr. Everline was away, police sent three cars speeding to the area. Two Township cars also assisted, while Detective Charles Harris and Patrolmen William Hunter, Timothy Huizing and Robert Mucciarelli converged on the house.

"We were lucky to get him," commented Chief McGrohan. "You don't get one inside like this too often." He added that Burnett had just been released from prison for housebreaking.

He emphasized again how helpful the call was. "No police department can function well unless neighbors and citizens assist us. Wherever anyone sees something suspicious, no matter how small, they should call the police. We appreciate this type of assistance very much."

GET $200, TYPEWRITER

From Film Office. An electric typewriter valued at $400 and $200 in petty cash from a desk drawer were stolen this week from the basement office of Dick Robert's Film, Inc. located in an office building at 311 Nassau Street.

Police said the thief found a key to open the desk containing the cash. File cabinets in the office were also ransacked.

The entry was reported by Michael Maryk, proprietor of Princeton Hairstyles for Men. Also entered was the office of Malcolm Roszel, vice-president of safes for L. C. Bowers and Sons. Mr. Roszel is mayor of West Windsor Township.

A dictaphone was taken from his office and although his desk was ransacked, police said that apparently nothing else was taken.

Pfc. James Agins and Pfc. Ronald Holiday investigated. They report that entry was gained by tearing the screen of an outside rear door and forcing the inside door. An outside door knob had been twisted off, they said.

SOUTER CONGRESS

I speak to the silent troubled majority of men and women, dissatisfied with our lack of purpose and direction.

To them I say . . .

There Is A Better Way!

- Talk straight to people. They can handle the truth. What they can no longer take are the empty promises. . .the false hopes they've been fed.
- Let the violent and the lawless know that we can no longer tolerate their actions. Enforce our laws–equally and fairly–for ALL of our people.
- Stop talking "civil war". . ."black vote". . . "backlash". Think in terms of individuals with needs, hopes and dreams.
- Replace costly, stop-gap government spending with programs providing real incentives for people.
- Reduce "big government's" over-management of our economy.
- Key Social Security to the cost of living. Make certain that our older Americans are well provided for.
- Make it clear. . .at home and abroad. . .that we value the lives of our men in Viet Nam. Until we bring them home. . .we must protect our own.

Why I Plan to Vote

REPUBLICAN

By John L. Lesher, Jr.

It is most important that we re-elect Carl Schafer and Burton Peskin to the Princeton Township Committee. There can be no question as to the qualifications of these men as is evidenced by the fact that both candidates have stood for election before and in each case they have been successful. Carl Schafer in 1962 and 1965 and his running mate, Burton Peskin, in 1965. They bring to the job both a proven record of accomplishments and a sound program for the years ahead.

The Princeton community and the Township have been faced with a variety of important and complicated problems over the past few years while these men have been in office. Some of the principal issues that have confronted the Committee during their tenure have included:

(1) keeping pace with the rapidly expanding demands of the Township's inhabitants for public services and facilities; (2) a solution to the housing needs of both low and middle income groups; (3) growing concern with problems on the part of the youth of the community and (4) the need to coordinate plans and decisions with those of the Borough.

In all of these areas the Township Committee, on which both Schafer and Peskin have played key roles and whose action reflects their judgment and decisions, has established a creditable record.

In the area of meeting the demands of the citizen for new and expanded public services and facilities their accomplishments have included the opening of the Community Park recreation complex, the completion of a new public library and expanded sewerage service. On the subject of housing for low and middle income groups, which is a particularly complicated issue due to long-standing zoning regulations, the candidates have instituted programs that should lead to the soundest solutions. They have worked jointly with the Borough Housing Authority to develop low income housing and their recognition of the need for middle income housing has resulted in the creation of the Princeton Community Housing Incorporated. Much remains to be done in this area and the candidates have pledged continued cooperation with both the Borough Housing Authority and Princeton Community Housing Incorporated.

Several of the achievements of the Township Committee over the past few years have been very important in meeting some of the needs of the youth of the community, the Community Park facilities and the new library are particularly noteworthy in this regard. In addition, a more direct response has been the appointment of a full time juvenile officer.

Finally, many of these programs have been carried out jointly with the Borough. Such cooperation is essential to the overall success of these programs as they affect the whole community, both Township and Borough. Examples of such joint action include the low and middle income housing program and once again the library and Community Park.

All of these accomplishments have been carried out within the framework of an overall plan for continued community improvement. Specific evidence of this carefully planned approach is the adoption of the new Princeton Township Master Plan.

Furthermore, a number of bi-partisan commissions have been created and qualified Township citizens have been appointed to these commissions to make studies and recommendations on key issues.

DEMOCRATIC

By Leonard F. Newton

As a Republican who has worked actively for Republican candidates at the national, state and local levels over the years, I find it necessary, even imperative, to cross party lines this year to support Jim Floyd and Tom Hartmann for Princeton Township Committee. Hundreds of my Republican colleagues will be doing likewise in order to elect these men who have clearly superior qualifications.

Central to Princeton's present and future is that Princeton geographically is at the center of the greatest population concentration on earth. Over 25 million people live within commuting distance of Princeton. Manifold implications of this one fact requires local leaders who first understand and secondly are willing to aggressively plan for Princeton residents' future, keeping this imperative in mind.

Pressure of population on Princeton, already evident in rapid growth during recent decades, will increase, not abate in the years immediately ahead. Princeton Township policies on taxation, zoning and planning must all play a major role to preserve and enhance the Princeton environment which is why most Princetonians live here.

Hartmann and Floyd are sensitive to the needs of planning an environment for people — not some of the people, but all of the people who now occupy this attractive area. Hartmann and Floyd will oppose the unhealthy trend to a one-class community. They are mindful that many lifelong Princeton residents are now being taxed and zoned out of the Princeton community, a deplorable condition which present leaders have moved too slowly to correct.

Princeton Township has not been without some good leadership, but today needs an infusion of new ideas, new approaches and new enthusiasm to tackle the tough problems facing our community.

Floyd and Hartmann both have a broader and deeper understanding of the kind of community Princeton is and hopes to be than the opposition candidates. They better know what its needs are and have a stronger determination to vigorously tackle Princeton's challenges.

Jim Floyd knows Princeton by growing up here. He has achieved vocational success as head manager of a manufacturing section of a leading U.S. industrial firm. In doing so, he overcame those additional barriers which traditionally face a black man from humble origins.

Mr. Floyd knows how to get things done through people. He has proven his interest in and knowledge of community affairs through distinguished service on housing zoning committees, and local organizations. He has the same aspirations for his family that many Princetonians do — a comfortable Princeton home and a plan to see his two boys through college — one now attends Princeton, the other Rutgers.

Tom Hartmann, working professionally on urban affairs at Livingston College and Rutgers, will bring valuable background to bear on Princeton's major problems. Both Floyd and Hartmann will provide a dynamic, energetic, imaginative, creative approach to Township government designed to maintain the best elements of the Princeton environment.

Like most areas of the U.S., the Princeton environment is also under attack. Vandalism and robberies are on the rise. Narcotics are reaching some of our young people — not many, as yet, but any is too

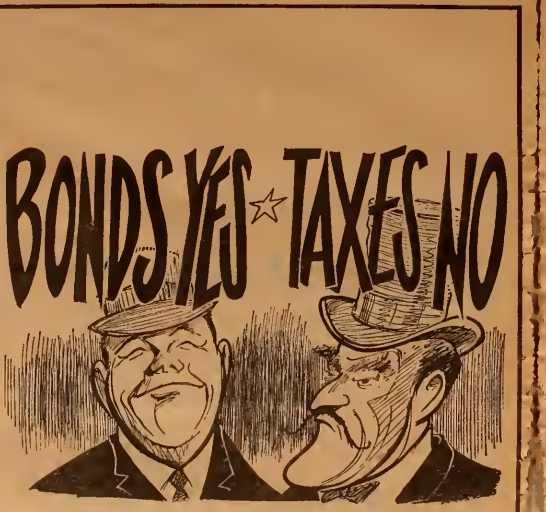
"Fresh U.S. Prime Meats -- That Are Good"



If your car is in bad shape, you can't buy a new one out of household money. You borrow and pay it off, right? That's what the New Jersey Bonds are all about Election Day . . . Borrowing to build roads, colleges, state institutions, vocational schools and to improve commuter railroads.

Remember, the State Treasurer said publicly that paying off the Bonds will not require a personal income tax. But if we fail to okay the Bonds he said we'll be left with two choices: Do without badly-needed facilities or pay for them with a new tax, probably an income tax. Get in there and vote Bonds Yes, taxes no.

Here are some examples of bond issue projects for Central New Jersey:

New facilities for Trenton State College; 32 new buildings for Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset County Colleges; and for Rutgers in and around New Brunswick, facilities for more than 5,000 more students.

Rail transit facilities will be completely modernized with bond issue money invested in the Jersey-Central, Penn-Central and other lines for electrification; new passenger cars; new and improved stations; more parking space; better connections and grade crossing eliminations.

Highway travel will be extensively improved by construction of six new freeways in Central Jersey plus major improvements for Routes 1, 9, 31, 33, 202 and 206.

Bonds will also pay the State's share for vocational schools in Hunterdon, Middlesex and Somerset Counties and make available funds for other area construction of vocational schools.

Also: community mental health centers for Hunterdon, Mercer and Somerset Counties; a children's unit for Trenton State Hospital; a Somerset State School for the retarded; community retardation centers for each county and an area unit for hard-to-place children. Seven institutions in the Central Jersey area are also slated for expansions and renovations.

Dodds Defends Thompson.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Election fever occasionally induces bad judgment in otherwise reasonable people. Such an instance has come to light in the campaign now being waged in the Fourth Congressional District of New Jersey.

Those managing the campaign of the apparently able Republican aspirant, Sydney Souter, have contrived a series of radio announcements erroneously exploiting certain words of the Democratic incumbent, Frank Thompson, Jr., recorded during his successful efforts to calm emotional crowds in Trenton and Princeton after the assassination of Martin Luther King last April. Under the circumstances, the effort of Mr. Souter's supporters, by wrenching sentences out of context, to portray the Congressman as an incendiary rather than a restorer and preserver of law and order perverts the truth. As a registered Republican of 50 years standing, I deplore this and urge that it be stopped forthwith.

Mr. Thompson's offer of legal assistance to those arrested in the Trenton rioting was in accord with a sacred American tradition — the right to a fair trial and representation by counsel. In making it he was acting to fulfill the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of New Jersey, which all lawyers on admission to the Bar of this State swear to support. To attempt to twist such an offer into advocacy of anarchy is a disservice to the electorate.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Township Mayor Carl C. Schafer:

As a young man I lived under a Fascist form of government, where you did as you were told, and if you raised objections no listened, or you were sent away.

Since I came to this country thbecame a Republican, joined the party and worked for it, only to find that at local levels little difference exists between the two.

The citizens of North Ewing and Harrison streets have objected strenuously to the location of the Post Office in the research park area. The Zoning Board has turned it down twice. Mr. J. J. Doherty, Post Office Regional Director states in his letter "The Federal Government is not exerting pressure of any sort upon local authorities to force the rezoning action, and will abide by the decision that is reached." During the public hearing on the new master plan I raised my hand five times. Mr. H. Sanders failed to recognize me; at 12:00 midnight I left.

Why is the Planning Board which has two Committee men as members trying to force this against the will of 416 petition signers? I can assure you that these citizens remain unpersuaded that the need for this installation, in this particular location is such to warrant a major departure from the zoning code under which we chose to settle in this neighborhood.

I would be grateful, Honorable Mayor Schafer, if you stated your position on the Post Office, since J. A. Floyd and T. B. Hartmann clearly stated theirs in the last issues of the local publications.

Walker Favors New Zoning.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

My abstaining from voting on the introduction of a new Borough zoning ordinance at the October 15th Council meeting was not from any lack of interest in the enactment of the proposed zoning ordinance, but only because, in one single clause (the cut-off date on building permits) I saw a conflict between my interest as a representative of the public and the interest of a client of my architectural firm. I would be loathe to have anyone conclude that I am against the ordiance as a whole. Since before Mayor Patterson and Alan Carrick took office in 1962, I have attended practically every meeting of the traditionally bipartisan Borough Planning Board at which this matter of zoning revision was discussed. I have tremendous faith in the professional ability of Raymond & May, the consultants, and have been most favorably impressed with the performance of the Planning Board both as to fairness and knowledge of the community.

I know that the proposals of the consultants have been given intelligent and professional scrutiny at the hands of the sub-committee of the Board, composed of Arthur Morgan, Norman Williams, and Alan Carrick. The Borough Engineer, Borough Attorney and I have also in varying measure participated.

This, of course, is not to say that a perfect legal document has been achieved. None ever is. There will necessarily be conflicts between some special interest of an individual property owner and what we, by our Master Plan of 1967, have recorded to be the overall welfare of the general public.

There is every reason to hope that enactment can be accomplished while Mr. Sorenson and I, who are familiar with the progress and background, are available to vote. Minor amendments, where advisable, can be made without re-publication or other delays.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

One of the strangest developments in this strange election year is the decision of the Township Republican campaign committee to appeal to the electorate by planting trees. This innovation should certainly not go uncelebrated. I have undertaken to celebrate it in verse, acknowledging my debt to that New Jersey poet who shared their veneration of trees.

I think that I shall never see
A candidate lovely as a tree,
A tree that may in autumn wear
A Party's spirit, sweet and fair,
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts its arms — What's to say?
Issues are made for fools like me,
Only a Republican can run as a tree.

Rights Commission Backed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mrs. Frankel's letter of last week touched upon a most important question. Is Princeton to have an effective human rights commission? The recent and persistent polarization within our community necessitates positive action by our elected officials.

While I can not speak for the intentions of other officials, I feel it important to point out that there are presently two local candidates whose intentions and past records speak very clearly.

Jim Floyd, while on the executive committee of the Princeton Association of Human Rights, has advocated the creation of such a commission. Tom Hartmann, besides assisting the Governor's Select Commission on Civil Disorders, has spent considerable time in the general area of human rights.

I point to Mr. Floyd and Mr. Hartmann because their past records and concern indicate that if elected to the Township Committee on Nov. 5, they will make sure that we will have the needed commission and that this issue will not become another political ploy.

Mrs. Frankel and others like her should seriously consider the candidacies of Jim Floyd and Tom Hartmann.

Music Lovers vs. Critics.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Over the years there have been a number of music reviews which have left me muttering to myself. This time (New Season Opens—As Beaux Arts Trio Plays, Town Topics, October 17, 1968) my mutterings have been so persistent as to have forced me to communicate them to you.

In Princeton where we do not have chamber music concerts even once a week during the season, hearing only the works ranked as masterpieces of composition by your reviewer would quickly result in assaying the Archduke trio at least three times a season.

This undoubtedly would be welcomed by Archduke lovers but for those others who must find out a priori what makes the Archduke a great trio, hearing Beethoven Op. 1 No. 1 or Brahms Op. 8, or even both of them on the same program helps to delineate the difference in genius, aside from being a pleasurable experience. Critics tend to forget that we are not all critics and therefore not encumbered by the occupational hazards of jaded ears and complete aversion to low opus numbers.

The understanding of music by mere music lovers as opposed to critics is after all built over a lifetime during which one needs to be exposed to the gamut of musical expression. The refreshing thing is that it is a continuous process because there are always those in our midst who are hearing Opus 1, No. 1 for the first time.

Do Something Constructive.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is easy to complain about how bad things are, which is what we are hearing and reading a lot this Fall. But November 5th, New Jerseyans have an opportunity to do something constructive about their state by voting YES on the three bond issues.

Transportation bond issue: The need here is obvious if you have been caught in a traffic jam lately or tried to use our public transportation system.

Public buildings construction bond issue: Half of New Jersey college students go out of state; other states are becoming increasingly reluctant to accept them because we cannot accept their students; many students who cannot afford the travel and living expenses out of state ar unable to attend college.

Our mental hospitals have a dangerously long waiting list; problems which might be solved simply are compounded for lack of attention. Part of Trenton State Prison pre-dates the Civil War. Children born with handicaps cannot receive the special care they need.

Housing assistance bond issue: $12½ million is designed as "seed money" to attract up to $90 million in private funds. It would provide insurance to encourage mortgage in ghetto areas and rehabilitation loans for homes in low-income areas. If we pass this bond, Prudential Insurance Company is ready to finance 1,000 units of housing.

Vote YES on all three bond issues November 5th.

Bond Issue "Crucial."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The bond issue that will appear on the ballot next month is crucial for every resident of New Jersey. By 1975 we will have a 50% increase in the number of students going to college. Our present facilities for higher education must be expanded to accommodate them.

We cannot afford to waste their talents and energies because we lack college classroom space. The money made available by passage of the bond issue will allow major expansion at Rutgers, the state colleges and the community colleges. New Jersey must assume the responsibility for its educational needs.

Low-Cost Housing Vital.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

One of the most pressing needs of this area is moderate-priced housing. Look at all the housing being built—$25-30,000 and up. Many people work hard all their lives and cannot afford this. Where is a man earning the minimum wage supposed to live?

The young couple, the small family, the retired couple do not want expensive four-bedroom homes. But with the rising costs of land and construction it is unrealistic to expect individual builders to fill this need.

Fortunately there is an answer. The smallest of the three bond issues on the ballot this November, Housing Assistance

In addition to the careful planning that has characterized the programs of Schafer and Peskin it is equally as noteworthy that these programs have been carried out at minimum cost. Any analysis of tax increases over the past several years will show that the predominant share of the increase has been due to county and school demands and not from the increased costs of local government. This has been a singular achievement and should be so noted by all responsible voters in the community.

In summary, Schafer's and Peskin's program for the future shows their awareness of the truly important needs of the Township. They realize that continued progress needs to be made in low and middle income housing. They know that despite the record of recent years, that additional open space and the expansion of Community Park are essential. They also know that they must go further with the youth of the community, and they propose to establish a program for youth guidance and counselling.

All of these proposals, as in the past, will be carried out on a carefully planned basis. Furthermore, to improve the effectiveness of their planning efforts, they propose to establish a regional planning board, assisted by a professional planner. We owe it to the community to return Schafer and Peskin to office in recognition of a job well done.

many. Numbers playing and other petty aspects of organized crime do go on in Princeton and need more vigorous government action to root out at the source.

Some Princeton slum housing is increasing the wealth of its owners as a "legal" tax shelter, while the tenants get little help in removing the unsanitary and unsavory conditions of such properties. Young children coming from such environments can not fully develop their inherent human potential or hope to achieve human dignity. Floyd and Hartmann CARE.

Two party government will mean better government for Princeton Township; different approaches competing for the best solutions.

While many Princetonians are having a tough time finding a Presidential candidate they can support with enthusiasm, the choice for Princeton Township committeemen is a clear one this year. Floyd and Hartmann have superior qualifications and for this reason alone I am confident that thoughtful and responsible Princeton voters will elect them.

At a time when we need the best leaders we can find at all levels of government — Floyd and Hartmann deserve your careful study and support.

Bond Issue for $12½ million will attract $99 million in private funds. Surely this a bargain.

The bond would insure loans from banks to buy or rehabilitate homes in ghetto areas where private insurance is not now available. Prudential Insurance Company has pledged $18 million if this bond passes. Bond money can provide low interest rates to encourage private construction.

Bonds will be paid for over a 35 year period at a maximum interest rate of 6%. New Jersey credit is excellent (because we have long deferred capital needs) but the longer we wait the more costly catching up will be. At present there are about 365,000 sub-standard housing units now occupied, with 25,000 deteriorating annually.

Vote YES in November.

Question Of The Week

Question: What is your reaction to the announcement that Jacqueline Kennedy will marry Aristotle Onassis, 62-year old divorced multimillionaire shipowner of Greek ancestry?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

John Rassell, Morrisville, Pa., architectural draftsman for Marshall Erdman & Associates, U.S. 1: I think it's strictly for platonic reasons—he's a millionaire. They not in love.

Robert Rosler, Morrisville, Pa., artist, Marshall Erdman: I think she's definitely a gold-digger. She's trying to stay in the bracket she's used to.

Mrs. Jerry Kenarney, 62 Wiggins Street, housewife: Actually, I hate to say I'm disappointed but I am in a way. Mainly, his age ,although I expected she would marry someone very wealthy.

Dick Barrett, Lakewood, salesman: I can't understand it at all. The difference in age. Usually, when people get married there's a reason. They marry for love, for money, for status . . . she has all three. Is it love? I don't know. So therefore my reaction is I hope it is the greatest thing in the world for her, but I can't understand it. A young man, yes.

Judith Towery, 72 Witherspoon Street, sales clerk, Ladybug: All I can say is I'm very surprised I never heard his name mentioned with her's before. Just Lord Harlech's. I hope he's a stable person and she can be happy with him.

Linda Leniban, Cranbury, secretary: I think she should get married, I really do. I'm sure she is very lonely. I feel it is up to her who she marries.

Miss Carol Szul, Trenton, Princeton legal secretary: Very disappointed. I don't think she lived up to her image. All I can say is I'm very disappointed, I feel sorry for her children. They really don't have a father. I don't think she looked out for their interest at all.

Mrs. Stephen Jones, 63 Einstein Drive, manager of the Weathervane: I feel she's been a widow five years; that's long enough. It rather surprised me she would marry a foreigner, though, since she was First Lady of the United States. Not that there is anything wrong in that—it just surprised me.

Miss Kim Oaties, 184 Witherspoon Street: She's 39. She's not getting any younger and I think she feels she wants to be with someone. Wouldn't you be lonesome with two kids? There's nothing wrong with an old man. He's nice to have. I approve of her and of her getting married.

Bob Rideout, Graduate College, public affairs, Woodrow Wilson School. My reaction to that is it really bothers me that here is a poor woman who can't live her own personal life. That seems to be everybody's question. Judging from what I saw on television last night, this seems to be The Question on everybody's mind. It doesn't bother me. She can do what she wants.

Mrs. Marianne Donovan, New Brunswick, typist for Wood & Tower, 90 Nassau Street, consultants: I don't think it is such a good idea. First of all, he's a little too old for her. Sure, the kids need a father, but I think she would have been better off and happier with Lord Harlech. It's not only that he's younger; he's more athletic, he could play with the kids—things like that.

Dave White, 86 Stockton Street, Seminary student: Rather surprised to say the least. The age difference is one aspect of it. I can't help but react to that. But it's her own life she has to lead. It's surprising. That's my initial reaction.

Miss Cathryn Wilson, Lawrenceville, secretary: It doesn't surprise me. I expected that she would eventually remarry.

Miss Judy Gerber, 43 Spring Street, employee, Princeton Bank & Trust: She's not giving her kids a father, she's giving them a grandfather. I think she should have married someone younger. But she is 39; she's getting sort of old. Maybe she can take someone who's settled down like a 62-year-old.

Cheri Marshall, 41½ Witherspoon Street, research assistant, Mathematica: I think it's fine. It's her business. She owes nothing to the American public.

Patricia Jany, Trenton, secretary to attorney Lowell F. Curran Jr.: I just feel if she's happy, why not. She's had a lot of hardships and all, and she has to raise her children. So at least they'll have a father now.

Miss Karen Wolf, Hightstown, Princeton Bank & Trust employee: I think it is really great. I just wish people would let her alone and mind their own business. Let her be happy and have a father for her kids.

Patricia Lambs, Levittown, Pa., computer programmer: I think she should be married. I was a bit surprised at his age, but that's up to her.

Miss Jean Gayeski, 43 Spring Street, employee, Princeton Bank & Trust: He's old enough to be her grandfather. Sure he is. I don't think she should marry him. I don't know how you could love someone that old. I think he's really too old for her.

MIXED TREND APPARENT

In Third Quarter Index. An almost even split of plus and minus signs sprinkled throughout TOWN TOPICS' business index for the Princeton community has produced a mixed trend (which is another way of saying no trend) for the third quarter of 1968, which ended September 30. The major indicators, however, point upward, and on balance Princeton's economy continues its slow but steady rise.

The indicators provided by the town's four banking institutions, savings, checking accounts and loans, all show healthy upswings. Savings, up less than $1 million from last quarter, but close to $7 million from a year ago, are approaching the $100 million mark.

Demand deposits scored the greatest advance, jumping more than $4 million from last June, the largest increase recorded between consecutive quarters in the past several years. Also well above last year's figure, the $59.7 million total is another all-time high. Loans did not lag behind, posting significant gains over both the previous quarter and year.

The brightest spot in the index was achieved in new car sales by Princeton area dealers, who kept pace with the record-breaking totals reported by Detroit's big three automakers. Normally, the third quarter total is below that of the preceding three months because of the slow period created by the changeover to new models, but this time it surpassed the second quarter mark by 20 cars or 3%.

The figure of 775 cars is the highest ever recorded for the third quarter since 1960, 38% over last year, and almost 150 more than the previous high set in 1965. If fourth quarter sales hold up, Princeton dealers will be in for a record year.

Construction figures in both Borough and Township are the principal ones defying trend analysis. Building permits are up substantially in the Borough over both comparative quarters, and down in the Township. Value of building permits shows a corresponding rise and decrease in each municipality.

The large $2.49 million figure in the Borough is due mainly to plans of the University to erect a $1.9 million computer center on land past Palmer Stadium toward Harrison Street. Property transfers rose in both Borough and Township from the second quarter, but only the Borough managed to achieve a gain over last year's figure as well.

The slower summer months on Nassau Street and other business avenues produced an understandable drop in parking meter receipts from the previous period, but the figure was also about $140 smaller than last year.

OFFICES OPENED HERE

By Industrial Firm. Industrial Fluidics, a new company engaged in the manufacture of research instruments for industry and universities, has been organized in Princeton with offices at 195 Nassau Street.

The company is also developing new concepts for instrumentation of aircraft and oceanographic systems. For example, one device generates tiny hydrogen bubbles to render visible the flow of fluids; another dispenses liquids or controlled quantities as small as one billionth of a liter.

One of the special services provided is in the new fluidic technology. Its basic concept, discovered in the early 1960's, is to use the interaction of fluid streams for logic operation and intelligence communication. It performs many of the functions of electronics systems, with the added advantages of no moving parts, a high degree of reliability and the ability to withstand extreme temperatures, shock and vibrations.

The firm offers engineering and consulting services throughout central New Jersey in fluid dynamics, fluid mechanics, stress analysis, heat transfer, controls and instrumentation. Dr. Esteban Martinez a former member of the research faculty at Princeton University, is president of the firm. He had been manager of the fluidics and fluid dynamics effort of Conrac Corporation, where he developed fluidic components and systems for the process and aerospace industries.

age. It is part of a program authorized by the Water Quality Control Act to discover more efficient means of treating waste.

GROUND IS BROKEN

For Computer Complex. Applied Logic Corporation has held ground breaking ceremonies for Mathematics Park, Inc., the computer and science building complex to be located next to the Princeton Airport on Route 206.

To serve as ALC's executive offices, Mathematics Park will also include space for research by other companies. Architects are Thaddeus Longstreth of Princeton and Richard and Don Neutra of Los Angeles and Zurich, Switzerland. L. C. Bowers & Sons, Inc., of Princeton, serve as general contractors.

The ALC's first computer building will be a two-story unit of about 20,000 square feet, with six ALC time-sharing computer systems installed. The company hopes to be able to move in by next April.

NEW SERVICE BEGINS

At Benson & Benson. A new marketing research service announced last week by Benson & Benson, Inc., 33 Witherspoon Street, will provide U. S. firms with information on consumer trends and public relations in some 16 foreign markets.

Now offered for most of Western Europe, Canada, Japan and Australia, the International Omnibus Survey will incorporate questions of several firms into a single questionnaire, to reduce the cost of the survey to the participating companies. The consumer polls will be conducted by Benson & Benson affiliates in the foreign countries.

Latin American countries are to be added to the service's range in the near future, according to company officials. Participating firms will select the nations they wish to cover and the specific questions they want answered, at prices set in advance.

AGREEMENT REACHED

For RCA-St. Regis Merger. Robert W. Sarnoff, president and chief executive officer of RCA, and Roy K. Ferguson, chairman of the board of the St. Regis Paper Company, last week announced an agreement in principle for the merger of the two companies.

Subject to the approval of both boards of directors of the two companies, definitive arrangements for the merger will be submitted to the shareholders of the corporations. There are some 13.7 million shares of St. Regis Common Stock presently outstanding, each worth approximately a tenth of a share of common stock.

After final approvals of the agreement, St. Regis will become a subsidiary of RCA, functioning as a separate entity under its own board of directors and management. No personnel changes are planned.

FRAZER PROMOTED

At Mideast Aluminum. Claude R. Frazer, 12 Fisher Avenue, has been promoted to the top sales management position at Mideast Aluminum Corporation and its subsidiaries, to direct the sales force through the company's planned expansion program.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Mr. Frazer served five years with the Air Force before being discharged in 1963. He spent three years with the Aluminum Company of America and a year with Associated Metals and Minerals Corporation before joining Mideast.

Everything's within walking distance.

Load up a Volkswagen Station Wagon with goodies from the butcher, the baker and the light bulb maker.

And it won't take a lot of huffing and puffing and climbing over seats to get to them. It will merely take a few footsteps.

Unlike other wagons, ours has an aisle from the front seat to the back seat.

So once inside, you don't have to go outside to get from one end to the other.

Think of the possibilities.

On trips with the kids, you can break up gang wars in a matter of a few steps.

And for once, you won't have to leave the car to stretch your legs.

A Volkswagen Station Wagon with an aisle will seat you and six of your friends nicely.

Without an aisle, it seats 9.
More talking.
Less walking.

FOUNTAINS OF SAND And Graphics. Gallery 100 combines the work of Ann Wiseman of Princeton and Francesco Copello of New York for the October exhibition.

Mrs. Wiseman, known for a great number of creative talents in the field of sculpture, painting, tapestry work, writing, illustration and teaching, this time shows only a group of her sandfountains which have already gathered much interest in private and national showings.

Francesco Copello, a young Chilean who studied in Italy, exhibited his graphics last year in Princeton at the Stuart Country Day School. His etchings and one silk screen at Gallery 100 are the work of this past summer and indicate a decided change and development from his earlier work.

Here we must add that the Gallery which was in charge of framing the graphics, has done a superb job of presentation which matches and compliments the equally well presented constructions. It's a good looking show.

Ann Wiseman. In her sandfountains, Ann Wiseman puts her interest in natural and contrived sculptural forms into a movable composition. She concentrates on a design which, when stable, is balanced. As it is motivated, it changes but continues to design.

Some of the fountains move as slowly as an hour glass, others as swiftly as the egg timer. If motorized, they relentlessly go on and on.

Sands, dark and flicked with mica, silken grey or glittery white are supplemented by colored marbles, the treasures of the beachcomber, an occasional metal or plastic shape.

The moving effects lead one to the kind of daydreaming which comes from watching the waves of the sea roll in, one after the other, all different but mesmerizing.

Francesco Copello. Copello's etchings are singular in that they are almost all plural. Not one idea but several are combined within the frames.

The first we studied was in hree levels, three moods! a silhouette landscape in breaking light, a similar landscape in faded light, and utter dark ness, all three elements in notable balance as whole.

Other landscapes or drawn figures are, in the same manner, superimposed, juxtaposed with abstract areas making it seem a kind of "fractured realism."

Etchings in which the figure appears bespeak the Italian influence. The artist is still interested in simple, supple drawing and uses it in his context for contrast. His realism has its counterpart in abstraction.

DAGMAR TRIBBLE At Present Day Club. The program of monthly art shows at the Present Day Club starts this month with an exhibition of recent watercolors by Dagmar Tribble.

Mrs. Tribble, who has shown in many Princeton and national shows, is the current President of the Princeton Art Association, the instructor of the Association's Fall Class in Watercolor and Collage. She is a member of the National Watercolor Society and the National Association of Women Artists and has won many awards including the American Artist Medal of Merit for 1966 and the Jane. C. Stanley Award in 1967.

Mrs. Tribble's most recent watercolors were done in Maine last summer. Like many other artists, she was fascinated by the rugged coast, the boats with their colors and reflections and the paraphernalia of seaside life.

Among what she refers to as "Impressions," are two particularly successful watercolors: one of rowboats drawn to the shore and another of lobster pots hung on a wall. These two point out her best clear, free and easy style in which she controls very nicely her design and color.

Other subjects of her summer work are "The Sad Houses of Maine." Several are shown in their delapidation, but have been painted with with such zest and color that, contrarily, they make gay and a ractive pictures.

Visitors are welcomed at the Present Day Club to see the shows, but, in view of the Club's activities, visitors are asked to make an appointment by telephone.

FALL SHOW PLANNED By Woosamonsa Members. A five-day exhibit of paintings, arts and crafts by the members of the Woosamonsa Fall Art Exhibition will begin Wednesday, October 23, at the Grange Hall, on Main Street in Pennington.

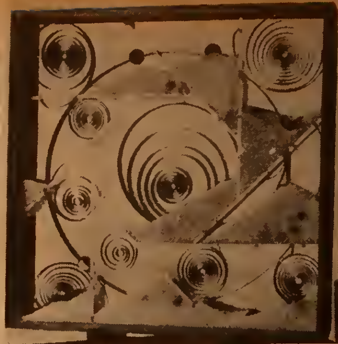
To include paintings of guest artists, the exhibit wll be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day through Sunday, October 27. Admission is free.

GRAPHICS LECTURE SET By Art Association. A lecture-demonstration on printmaking will be given to members of the Princeton Art Association at 8:15 Tuesday at the PAA Studios, 14 Nassau Street by Margaret K. Johnson, Princeton artist and authority on graphics.

Mrs. Johson, who teaches regularly at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Adult School and classes at the Art Association, will emphasize new developments and techniques in this medium, and will demonstrate the making of a collograph. The collograph is a contemporary adaption of old print processes, in which collage materials are used to build up a plate in combination with intaglio.

A graduate of the College of Wooster, Mrs. Johnson holds a B. F. A., degree from Pratt Institute and a Master of Design degree from the University of Michigan. Her prints and sculptures have been widely exhibited and have been included in many Princeton area juried and invitation shows. Several of her works are now hanging in McCarter Theatre in the PAA faculty show.

Non-members also are invited to attend.



"SPRING FOUNTAIN." A shifting, changing composition of sand and steel springs is on view at Gallery 100 in the collection of sand fountains constructed by Ann Wiseman. (Charles Fish Photo)

Is this the most beautiful phone in the world?

Only you can answer that question — for yourself.

The Trimline® telephone is, however, the only phone ever to be selected for the permanent design collection in New York's Museum of Modern Art.

It is compact. You lift the handset, and ten Touch-Tone® pushbuttons, which let you "dial" twice as fast, light up and come to you. It is convenient. If you're making more than one call, don't hang up. Just press the new recall button to get a dial tone.

Since you don't have to see the base to call, you can put the Trimline phone in odd, out-of-the-way places. It's a real space-saver with a cord that's 18 inches longer.

How much does it cost? Only pennies a day. And there's no extra charge for color. If you want Touch-Tone service, the additional Touch-Tone charge covers all the phones on your line.

WHAT'S UP AT PENN?

Quakers among the Unbeaten. As the 1968 football season nears the half-way mark, the University of Pennsylvania, which hasn't won half its games in any season since 1959, is still among the nation's undefeated teams. As the Quakers were rolling to a 34-0 victory over Lehigh on soggy Franklin Field last weekend, the stands were reverberating to a chant of "We Want Princeton!"

The Tigers will be there Saturday, hoping that they have the formula that will make Penn come unglued. Since both entries in the contest must still face unbeaten Harvard and defending champion Yale, the loser will in all probability fade as a contender for the 1968 Ivy title.

Coach Bob Odell's Red and Blue has achieved its current return to the league's first division on a basis of steady rebuilding, the presence of two highly capable backs on offense, and morale that is nowsky-high after early success. The opponent Penn would rather beat than any other is on its schedule this weekend, and the Quakers hope to achieve their first victory over the Orange and Black since they won the Ivy title eight long years ago.

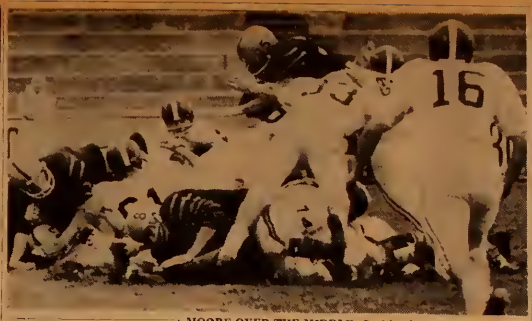
The extent of the opposition they will encounter is, at best, unpredictable. Taking nothing away from an eager, well-coached Colgate eleven, the fact remains that the Red Raiders won in Saturday's rain because only one team was there to play.

Jekyl-Hyde Performance. It is difficult to determine why, after four games this season, a team of Princeton's potential has played only five quarters of good football. In the final period against Columbia, when they rolled for 30 points, and in the entire contest at Hanover, the Tigers put everything together.

Sharp in contrast, late in the game they nearly trailed a Columbia eleven which has yet to win this season, and they have lost to Rutgers and Colgate through a series of elementary mistakes. Last Saturday, these ranged from costly offside penalties to missed blocking assignments and inadequate tackling — miscues that have no place in a game played as late as October 19.

Saturday's slippery footing in Palmer Stadium bothered the Tigers throughout the afternoon, but it is noteworthy that similar conditions did not pare down the ability of other teams to a like degree. This was true of Colgate, which got better as the conditions grew worse, and of Penn quarterback Bernie Zbrzezej, who completed seven straight passes while hitting on 11 for 15 and 127 yards. Princeton was 1 for 8 for 9 yards — and two interceptions.

Convincingly beaten earlier this fall by both Yale and Cornell, Colgate had both the ability and the desire to trim the Tigers. What's more, anyone who feels that the outcome would have been different on a dry day can't see beyond his orange and black necktie. No team making as many mistakes as Princeton did — and combining them with a disinterested approach to the afternoon's proceedings will beat an opponent that plays as hard as Colgate did Saturday.



MOORE OVER THE MIDDLE: On his ninth successive carry in a 40-yard drive, fullback Ellis Moore scored Saturday for Princeton. First-period touchdown was Tigers' last, however, Colgate proving superior in 14-7 contest.

QUICK LOOK AT PENN

OFFENSE: Best Quakers have had in years. Good balance effected between passing of quarterback Bernie Zbrzezej and running of fullback Gerry Santini.

DEFENSE: Appears to have come of age, after year of rebuilding in 1967. Strong corps of linebackers.

CHIEF ASSET: Belief in itself, after winning first four for first time in current decade.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Offense lacks depth. Ability to sustain attack for a full game is open to question.

TYPE OF ATTACK: I with balanced line.

Penn Gains Balance. Victor in only five of 18 games during the past two seasons (which saw them lose to Princeton, 30 to 13 and 28 to 14), the Quakers have shown so far this year that they have a defense to go with their usual offense-minded approach to the game. The latter is better balanced, too: Zbrzezej's passing is more of a threat because fullback Gerry Santini gives the Quakers a solid running game.

A year ago, Penn held Brown and Columbia to a single TD apiece, while winning two of its three games from them, but gave up a minimum of three touchdowns to each of the other seven teams it played. Light losses through graduation (28 lettermen formed the foundation for this year's squad) have helped the Red and Blue achieve its current 4-0 record and imolant the belief that it can end the long string of Princeton victories. Since the powerful Penn teams of the immediate post-war era disappeared from the scene, the Tigers have won 14 of the 17 games played in the last two decades.

TIGER ATTACK STALLED

Victim of Goal-line Stands. The offense that had averaged more yards rushing than any other college team in the U.S. ran a dozen plays from inside the ten yard line Saturday and scored once. When the defense could not contain two Colgate drives — including the tie-breaker that churned over 67 yards of muddy turf — the visitors walked off the field with a 14 to 7 upset.

Princeton missed a chance to put the visitors behind very early when it recovered a fumble on the first play from scrimmage and tried to go 22 yards for a touchdown. Seven plays netted 20 yards but a fourth down shot at left guard by fullback Ellis Moore was piled up for no gain and Colgate took over on its 2.

The next drive brought the Tiger's lone success of the game, nine plays covering 40 yards for the touchdown and Moore carrying on every one of them. Midway through the fourth period, when Princeton drove 87 yards only to fail at the Colgate 1, Dick Bracken was given the ball on the last seven plays. Like much of the losers' performance, the quarterbacking Saturday was also short of the mark.

Colgate drew even in the second quarter when Dick Schrumpf, the day's best player with a fine defensive performance, snared a Scott Mac Bean pass through the simple expedient of wrestling it out of the Princeton's receivers grasp. Three plays took the ball in from the nine and the half ended at 7-7.

Midway through the third quarter, the Tigers yielded the ball on downs on the visitors' 27 and Colgate went the distance. Penn scouts in the press box noted with extreme interest the relative ease with which fullback Gene Detwiler gained through the right side of the Tiger line, a spot he hit seven times while the drive was in progress. His last carry brought the TD and the eventual victory.

Twice in the final period, Princeton had a chance to draw even but failed. First, the 87-yard march fizzled at the 1 when Schrumpf nailed Bracken there on fourth down. Later, sophmore wingback Pete Hauck shot around left end on a double reverse and had time to yell instructions at a Tiger lineman to block the last Colgate defender. The block was missed cold, and so was a sure touchdown.

THIS TIGER HAD FUN: While most Princetonians glumly watched their team's poor performance on a soggy afternoon, the Tiger's loner Man thought happy thoughts about the pert drum majorette whom Colgate's band featured. (Bob Matthews Photo)

The thought here is that despite its unbeaten status (through victories over Bucknell, Brown, Cornell and Lehigh), Penn's ranking as a potential power in the Ivy League is suspect. All of these opponents are sub par this season; none appears to have the potential of the Dartmouth eleven which Princeton trounced so convincingly.

It will take a performance of that calibre, however, to defeat Pennsylvania. In view of its wholly inconsistent actions on the first four Saturdays this fall, the burden of proof is strictly on Princeton. Meanwhile, there is the disturbing omen that the first time since 1961, the Tigers have lost to both Rutgers and Colgate, and that year they were no better than 5-4.

PHS HEADS FOR COLONIA

With .500 Mark. For the first time this season, the Princeton High School football team will journey outside Mercer County when it travels to Colonia Saturday. The contest will start at 10:30.

This is only the second season for Colonia High which was created two years when Woodbridge High School grew too large and split in two. What was true of the Patriots last fall is true again this year.

Colonia came to Princeton last fall with one victory in four starts. PHS Coach Dick Wood then described the visitors as big but slow afoot. The Little Tigers, on their way to one of their best seasons, subsequently romped to a 38-0 win. It was the only game in a long time, Wood remarked later, that he had just sat back and watched.

Last week, Wood reported that he believed Colonia has won only once so far this season. They are still heavy and slow but it is doubtful whether Wood will be as relaxed watching this second meeting, because Princeton demonstrated fin its rain-soaked 13-7 victory here over Trenton Saturday that it still has problems.

The Blue and White is guilty of defensive lapses, particularly on pass defense. It is inconsistent. The team will play heads up ball and take advantage of breaks in one quarter and then fall flat. "We made a lot of mistakes," said Wood after the Trenton game, shaking his head and lucky to walk off the field a winner.

Rain Hurt, But Whom? Just how much the old cliche of rain and mud being a great equalizer was a factor in the Trenton-PHS game is hard to say. Certainly, it impaired the Little Tigers' running game, and yet Trenton, which entered the fray winless in its last 18 starts and a decided underdog, appeared to be the greater victim of the weather.

In the end, it was Princeton's ability to hang on to the slippery pigskin and Trenton's inability that swung the game in the home team's direction. Trenton fumbles set up both Princeton scores and finally,

BUSY PLAYER: Bob Kennedy, 5-11, 170-pound senior, recovered two fumbles, ran occasionally as a fullback and played the entire game as a defensive halfback during Princeton High School's 13-7 victory over Trenton.

with 27 seconds to go and Trenton inside the five, THS quarterback Doug Battle fumbled the snapback on the three and Dave Drake recovered for PHS.

With the exception of the second quarter when it slackened, it rained hard throughout the game. Princeton got going when Drake recovered a THS fumble on the PHS 43. A pass, Nick Arcaro to wingback Bob Cooper, was good for 36 yards to the THS 12. Fullback Johnny Madden bulled his way to the two from where Arcaro scored a play later with 2:45 remaining. Chris Gartner split the uprights.

Late in the quarter Jim Gilroy fell on another Tornado fumble on the visitors' 27. Arcaro and Cooper then teamed up for the score. Two passes to the stocky, 5-10 wingback, who played his best game of the season, carried to the 14 and then the two yard line for successive first downs.

Another pass was too high, but on the second play into the second quarter, Arcaro hit Cooper again for the TD. The PAT attempt misfired. However, when Bob Kennedy recovered another THS fumble a short time later on the latter's 35 it appeared that PHS would be off and running again.

But the home team didn't capitalize and that was to be the end of its scoring for the day. After the game, Wood commented that if his team had been able to push across three or four touchdowns in the opening half then the second half might have been much different.

Trenton Comes Alive. Trenton, meanwhile, played listlessly as if resigned to its fate. It suddenly sprang to life however after Joe Morton returned a punt from the PHS 46 to the 16. Battle scored on a keeper around end with 5:45 remaining in the third quarter.

Now Princeton was making the errors. Kennedy fumbled on his own 24 but THS failed to take advantage. A fourth down surprise run by punter Laurie Bloom was stopped by Trenton on the PHS 41 and again Trenton failed to capitalize.

Then after a Bloom punt had driven THS back with less than four minutes to play, Trenton drove 63 yards to the three with 27 seconds to go, setting up Battle's fumble. The big play was a 30-yard pass from Battle to halfback Don Angelini.

"The pass should have never been completed," said Wood later. He was covered but the boy defending against him dropped off, thinking it was going to be another run." Wood also reported that THS coach Frank Capraro told him after the game that Trenton had played above their heads in comparison to past performances. "It was our best game in a long time," he said.

Off the field observation: Placement kicker Chris Gartner's right foot encased in plastic wrap to keep his shoe dry; PHS principal Ken Michael, hatless and rain running down his face, still on the sidelines, as he is in every game, talking to and urging the players on; a halftime PHS "band" consisting of seven members that marched, in tenderomallion fashion but with heads erect through the mud to the center of the field and back again; 19 water-logged spectators in the second half urging Trenton on; and the Little Tiger mascot, his tiger costume drenched, taking time to entertain a small child in a wheelchair.

FUEL OIL UNDEFEATED

In Midget League Play, Dave Black's running and passing led undefeated Princeton Fuel Oil to its third victory Sunday, 15-6, over Matthews Construction, and a tighter grip on first place in the Midget Football League. In the other game, the Princeton University Store and Nassau Conover Motors battled to a 6-6 tie, with both teams scoring with less than a minute left in the game.

Fuel Oil's alert defense put its first points on the scoreboard after the offensive unit drove all the way to Matthews two yard line, only to fumble. However, Matthew's Bobby Weisbecker was trapped behind his goal line on the play and Fuel Oil led, 2-0. Black got the offense started again in the second quarter, passing 20 yards to Danny Cox, 18 more to John Mooney and capping the drive with a ten yard scoring pitch to Glen Goethals. Another toss back to Mooney converted for the extra point.

Matthews got quickly back into the ball game, however, and with just 20 seconds remaining in the half, when Weisbecker and Frank Caponi combined for a 72-yard scoring pass to cut Fuel Oil's lead to 9-6. Black sealed matters in the third period with an eight-yard run to finish the scoring.

Fuel Oil's defense led by Buddy Kleiber, Roe Aiman Peter Barnett and Darrel Brooks held Matthews in check most of the game. Dan Delvecchio was outstanding for the losers on defense with nine tackles, while Dave McNamara and Daren Perone each had five.

In as exciting a finish as any in Midget League history, Nassau Conover and the U-Store remained locked in a scoreless tie until the final moments of the contest. Fred Wilson had run well for the U-Store and Bobby King had 86 yards in 23 carries for Conover, but neither team could mount a scoring drive.

Then with three minutes remaining Dan Blum fell on a Conover fumble to give the U-Store possession on the opposition's 30-yard line. From there it took King just three carries to go into the end zone, and with 58 seconds left, the U-Store apparently had a victory in the bag.

Conover could only get the kick off back to its 30 yard line, but on its first play Jamie Petrone dropped back and lofted a 20 yard aerial to lanky Dave Harwood who outraced the U-Store defenders to the goal line. Conover failed to convert on the extra point that would have won the game.

In all, Harwood gathered in five passes for 103 yards. He also threw two completions, and George Reynolds was three for three through the air. On defense, John McCullough, John Soderman, Peter Pilshaw and Steve Tomlinson starred for Conover, and Tony LaPlaca, Kevin Smith, and Martin Pike stood out for the U-Store.

TROPHIES AWARDED

By Carnegie Sailors. The Carnegie Sailing Club's annual Jefferson Memorial Regatta was won Sunday by Penguin captain John Hopfield, with his daughter Allison as crew, as the pair showed the greatest improvement since the club's series last spring.

Honors for the highest total score in the regatta were presented to John Reeder, who shared his Penguin with his son Jack. Ed Metcalf was second.

The Club's Touchdown Regatta drew 28 sailing dinghys Saturday morning, with heavy rain preparing the boatmen for an afternoon in Palmer Stadium. Dick Curry, of Old Cove, N. Y., was first in the yearly event, while Metcalf led the Carnegie sailors with a seventh place finish.

In regular sloop races Sunday, Tom Huntington with Tom Andrus as crew, edged second-place Bill Rogers. Bubbie Smith led the Sunfish, as Hank Munson was second.

63 PINS OVER AVERAGE

For Kaye Carnevale. Kaye Carnevale of Rocky & Sons rolled 181 last week in the Princeton Women's Bowling League at the Highstown Lanes — 63 pins over her average of 118.

Marilyn Silvester of Rosso's Cafe had two fine games of 186-175, ending with a 489 series. Other high games: Helen Lowe, 180; Joyce Thomas, 178; Sara Rose, 172; Helen Scott, 169; and Betty Cooper, 166. Joan Pirone, Alice Potts and Helen Lowe all converted difficult three-pin splits.

Rosso's Cafe widened its lead to 46-41 over Cranbury Bank. Turney Motors is third with 40, followed by Mamel (33) and Swift's Colonial Diner (32). Rosso's fashioned the high team game of 843; Mamel the high team series of 2376.

New Cage Delayed, Duke Game Switched

The Princeton-Duke basketball game, originally scheduled for Saturday, December 7, as part of the dedication ceremonies for the University's new Jadwin Gymnasium, has been moved to Madison Square Garden.

As TOWN TOPICS first reported in July, a series of construction delays has slowed progress on the new gymnasium to such an extent that it will not be ready in time. The official opening has now been projected to late January, 1969, hopefully in time for the televised contest against Pennsylvania on January 25.

Faced with the alternative of meeting Duke in Dillon Gymnasium with its limited capacity of around 2,200, Princeton accepted an offer from New York University authorities to play the game in the Garden as part of a collegiate doubleheader. Columbia and New York University, scheduled to meet at the Violets' gym that day, will play in the other half of the twin bill.

Princeton decided to accept the N.Y.U. invitation to allow more alumni of both Duke and Princeton in the New York metropolitan area an opportunity to see the contest. The Columbia-N.Y.U game will begin at 1:30, with the Tiger-Blue Devil contest to follow at 3:30.

This will mark Princeton's first appearance in the "new" Garden, and give it a chance to become familiar with the court, before its Christmas appearance there three weeks later in the ECAC holiday tournament. It will also give the Tigers another chance at beating Duke, something they have yet to achieve in seven outings. Last year, the Blue Devils triumphed, 85-79, at Durham.

A former major in the Marines, Mr. Bowman retired from the service in 1960 to become director of financial aid at Johns Hopkins University, his alma mater. He joined ETS in 1966 as associate director of the CSS staff.

Mr. Bowman, who has conducted extensive research on the economics of financial aid, is currently a consultant on scholarship matters to the United States Office of Education.

James L. Bowman

Booher is also a former president of both the American Textbook Publishers Institute and the New York Academy of Public Education.

Among his non-publishing activities are the chairmanship of the New Jersey Board of Higher Education and membership on the National Board of Foreign Scholarship, and the Antioch College Board of Trustees, which he formerly led as president.

BOOHER APPOINTED

To Head McGraw-Hill. Edward E. Booher, a resident of Cranbury, has been named chairman of McGraw-Hill Book Company, the largest general and educational publishing firm in the world.

President of the company, a division of McGraw-Hill, Inc., since 1960, Mr. Booher will continue as the company's chief executive officer and chairman of the editorial and executive committees. Harold W. McGraw Jr., executive vice president, will succeed Mr. Booher as president, with responsibilities for the company's publishing programs and marketing.

A 1936 graduate of Antioch College, Mr. Booher joined McGraw-Hill shortly thereafter, as a "college traveler," a sales position. He became a vice president in 1944, executive vice president in 1954, president in 1960 and a member of the board of McGraw Hill, Inc., in 1961.

Currently president of the American Book Publishers Council and chairman of Franklin Book Programs, Mr.

Miss Lesley Bush, defending the title she won at Tokyo in 1964 in the three-meter dive, was unable to qualify for the finals. Pete Raymond, who rowed in a fours shell without coxswain, reached the finals last week but his boat was defeated on Saturday. West Germany was the winner in that event.

A Princeton undergraduate, Ross Wales, won a bronze medal in the 100-yard butterfly. His home is in Youngstown, Ohio.

HUN ROMPS, 46-0

Solebury Here Friday. Hun School (3-0) will resume action in the Penn-Jersey league Friday afternoon when it plays host to Solebury in a contest scheduled to start at 3:30.

Solebury brings with it a 2-2 record but both of its losses were league games. Hun is 1-0 in the league, where the current leader is Bryn Athyn with a 2-0 mark.

After taking a 20-0 halftime lead against St. Joseph's of Hammonton Monday, Hun coach Hawley Waterman reported he started his varsity for the second half to insure that St. Joe's "didn't come back." Waterman's concern was short lived. Fullback and co-captain Dick Mate ran the kickoff back 79 yards.

A short time later, when quarterback Mike Maguire scored on a keeper, Hun had a five-touchdown bulge and Waterman used his second and third stringers the rest of the way. The final was 46-0.

Halfback Steve Peters and Mate each scored twice for Hun — all on runs. After McGuire's six-pointer, reserve fullback Mike Guadagno and

Dr. Robert H. H. Goheen, 88, one of the pioneer Presbyterian medical missionaries to India, died October 18 in Princeton Hospital after lengthy illness. He was the father of President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton University.

Born in Kolhapur, India, the son of a Presbyterian missionary, Joseph H. Goheen, his career spanned 40 years of medical work in India. In Vengurla, he developed the hospital now known as St. Luke's from a small dispensary he opened in the heart of the city. A leprosarium was added in 1918 and the Hillside Tuberculosis Sanatorium a year later.

From 1934 until his retirement in 1945, Dr. Goheen served in Miraj as director of the Miraj Medical Centre, a complex organization coosisting of a medical school, leprosarium, tuberculosis sanatorium and radium cancer institute. He started what has since become the Goheen Psychiatric Center.

Dr. Goheen was sent to the United States when he was surviving with an aunt first in Cannonsburg, Pa., and later in Wooster, O. He attended Wooster College for two years and was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1902 and from Rush Medical College, Chicago, in 1905.

He was assigned to the Western India Mission by the former Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. and on May 23, 1905, before going on his assign, he married Anna K. Ewing, also born in India of Presbyterian missionary parents. After studying the language at Miraj, he began his work in Vengurla.

Dr. Goheen served as president of the Christian Medical Association of India and for six years edited the association Journal. In 1933, he was awarded the Kaiser-i-Hind Gold Medal by King George V.

After his retirement in 1945, Dr. and Mrs. Goheen lived in New York for six years and from 1951 until they came to Princeton in 1957, were residents of Orlando, Fla.

In addition to his wife and son, Dr. Goheen is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jeremiah S. Pinch, of Princeton; 10 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, and a brother, Joseph M. Goheen of Pine Plains, N. Y.

A memorial service will be held at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday in Princeton University Chapel. In lieu of flowers, memorial gifts may be made to the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations, United Presbyterian Church of the U. S.A., 475 Riverside Drive, New York City, for the work of Dr. Ronald Seaton in Vengurla, India. Arrangements were under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Miss Helen Howe, 92, last survivor of a distinguished Princeton family, died October 19 in Merwick.

Born in "Snowden," Miss Howe lived there until the death of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Howe, in 1942. At the time of her death, Mrs. Howe was the senior member of the First Presbyterian Church, having joined in 1898.

Miss Howe was a charter member of the Present Day Club and the Princeton Needle work Guild. For many years, she translated books into Braille for the blind. She was also a member of the Princeton Historical Society and the English-Speaking Union.

Her grandfather founded Princeton Bank and Trust Company. Edward L. Howe, former president of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, and Walter B. Howe, founder of Walter B. Howe, Inc., were cousins.

She knew and loved Princeton in the days of buggys, carriages and sleighs — and she saw it change and grow, without sighing for the past. In her own words, this is a bit of her background:

"My mother, Rosalie Cumming, was the daughter of Alexander McWhorten Cumming and Emily Hornblower, whose father, Joseph C. Hornblower (1777-1864) was Chief Justice of New Jersey. The Chief Justice's father came over from Cornwall on the invitation of a Col. Kingsland to what is now Newark, to pump out discontinued mines with the engine (Josiah Hornblower) had invented and which is now in the Smithsonian in Washington.

"My father, Leavitt Howe, named for his mother's maiden name, graduated from Yale in 1858 and came to Princeton with his brother Edward, buying the old Blackwell farm, building Snowden and living there until his death in 1914. His mother, Elizabeth Leavitt was only 17 when she married my grandfather, Fisher How, who was a widower of 34 with three little children. She did not like the shortness of the name and persuaded him to add the 'E,' but his five brothers never added an 'E' and were much upset by grandfather's doings."

A memorial service will be held at 3:30 this Saturday in the Chapel of First Presbyterian Church. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be sent to the Princeton Public Library for the benefit of the staff.

SERIES I OPENS

With Sonata Recital. The Belgian-born violinist, Arthur Grumiaux, assisted by Leon Pommers at the piano, presented a Sonata recital at McCarter Theatre on Monday night to commence the first of this current season's Series I concert programs. The program included the Sonata in Bb Major, K. 378, by Mozart; the Sonata in G Major, Op. 30, No. 3, by Beethoven; the Debussy Violin Sonata in G Minor, and the Brahms: Sonata for Violin and Piano in D Minor, Opus 108, No. 3.

Mr. Grumiaux is a well known artist. He has recorded a considerable number of concerti and his reputation in Europe is well established; yet this listener, did not come away from the concert hall with the impression that he had heard a major artist. Despite Mr. Grumiaux's generally fine musicianship and warm tone, his playing seemed unexciting, his tone uneven and his intonation insecure.

Mr. Pommers (no stranger at these concerts), played with style, impeccable musicianship, and brought to each work the compassion and interest that was lacking in the performances of Mr. Grumiaux. Mr. Pommers knows how to shape a melodic line, cause it to rise in volume to just the right dynamic level while maintaining a balance between the piano and violin.

This was most evident during the Debussy and Brahms Sonatas, which present considerable problems in this regard. During many passages of the Brahms D Minor Sonata, one reveled in the magnificent shading of Mr. Pommers interpretive style. Colors and lines were brought forth that are simply not heard in lesser readings. These qualities may have contributed to a resurgence in Mr. Grumiaux's performance, for he played the first two movements of the Brahms (at any rate) with a far greater intensity than anything else.

There was some occasional sloppy playing during the concert however. Indeed, Mr. Grumiaux spent a busy night tuning and retuning his instrument between movements, an obvious necessity. There were occasions, too, when it appeared as if the violinist tended to hurry the phrase endings in the Mozart Sonata heard earlier on the program.

This is the fourth time in the past six years that both the Beethoven and Brahms Sonatas have been played at these concerts (including the series of chamber programs held at 10 McCosh Hall.) The Debussy Sonata has fared less well, perhaps three times during the same period. (There was a time when Ravel's "Daphnis Et Chloe" used to spear on almost every orchestral program presented in Princeton, but this is past.)

It would appear from this corner that Series I and II concerts would be far more interesting and culturally more rewarding if those responsible for selecting programs by these artists had more of a choice in determining what is played, based on a check of recent programs given in Princeton. Monday night's program as well as the Series II opener (given the previous week), were typical "establishment"-type fare, totally devoid of music composed during the past half century. The world of today may be one that many would like to escape but why should the concert hall provide such easy access?

MILES, PLAYING MILES

in Campus Concert. Barry Miles will bring his syncretic jaz to Murray Theatre this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 for his fourth appearance under the Theatre Intime imprimatur.

Miles, a senior at Princeton University majoring in music, has been playing the piano professionally since he was nine, appearing on 20 major television shows and recording two albums of his own music.

He was a featured artist at the first International Jazz Festival in Washington, and won an ASCAP award for composition. He recently completed a State Department tour of seven European countries.

Miles has decided to spend the entire first half of the evening at Murray Theatre offering continuous music, with individual compositions linked to one another by improvisations. (Miles is the author of a text on methods of improvisation.)

———

The Barry Miles Quartet, which will serve as the composer's medium, consists of Miles on piano; Cameron Brown, bass; Lew Tabackin, saxophone; and Don Perullo, drums.

Richard Saltsman, a Princeton junior, will handle the special lighting effects as he did for a Miles concert last year.

NOTES FROM NEW JERSEY

in Detroit. The Princeton Chamber Orchestra will play a new composition by the New Jersey composer Ulysses Kay on February 13 in Detroit, it was announced this week.

The Detroit performance will be the premiere for the new work, titled "Scherzi Musicali" and commissioned by the Chamber Music Society of Detroit. The Princeton musicians will play Mr. Kay's composition on March 24 for their McCarter Theatre concert.

———

Mr. Kay, professor of music at Herbert H. Lehman College of the City University of New York, is well-known for his film and television scores. He wrote the background music for "The Quiet One" in 1948, and that film started him on a career of composing for film and, later, for television documentaries.

"Markings," a tribute to the late Dag Hammerskjold, is one of Mr. Kay's best-known compositions.

HAVENS, IN PREMIERE

In Princeton, That Is. Richie Havens, the folk-jazz-blues singer, will come before Princeton audiences for the first time on Friday, November 15, at 8 p.m. Place: Alexander Hall. Tickets on sale: McCarter box office.

Richie Havens was born in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, and worked as a Western Union messenger, restaurant counterman, yarn winder, doll-factory worker and Gospel singer before he decided on folk music in 1962.

He sang around Greenwich Village for four years, then his career zoomed in 1966 with his first record album "Mixed Bag."

MORE MUSIC

From Marlboro. Musicians who rehearsed and performed all summer long at the Marlboro Music Festival this year, will bring their expertise to 10 McCosh Hall on the University campus next Thursday at 8:30 for the first in a series of "Music from Marlboro" concerts.

The appearance of the Marlboro musicians is sponsored by the Princeton University Music Department Chamber Series, which constitutes a kind of "Series III" addition to the Series I and Series II concert series.

Seven musicians will participate in the program. They will play the Mozart Flute Quartet in D Major, the String Trio in A Minor by Max Reger, the Debussy Sonata for Flute, Viola and Harp and Ravel's Introduction and Allegro for Harp, Flute, Clarinet and String Quartet.

Tickets at $2.50, are on sale in the Concert Office, Woolworth Center, and at the door of 10 McCosh the night of the concert. Prices are $2.50.

INCLUDING THE BAROQUE

In Guitar Recital. Compositions by five Spanish composers, Haydn and three Baroque composers will be on the program when John Williams and his guitar come to McCarter.

The Australian guitarists will play on Tuesday, November 19 at 8:30 as the first artist in the "Musical-at-McCarter" series. Tickets for Mr. Williams' recital are now on sale.

Alonso Mudarra, Gaspar Sonz, plus Albeniz (Sonata in D); Granados ("Zarabanilla") and Turina ("Rafaga" and "Fandanguillo" are the Spaniards represented.

Scarlatti has been named for three sonatas, Johann Sebastian Bach for a Prelude, Fugue and Allegro and Handel and Haydn for works as yet unannounced.

ORGAN TO BE DEDICATED

Twice. Because the seating capacity of Proctor Hall at the Graduate College is limited, the new Henry Clay Frick Memorial Organ will be dedicated twice — on November 1 and again on November 3.

The first recital will be played by Carl Weinrich at 8:30 on Friday, November 1. He will repeat the program Sunday, November 3 at 3:30. Both are open free to the public.

———

Dr. Weinrich has chosen to play the Kyrie from the Mass for the Parishes by Couperin; Christe Redemptor by Cavazzoni; Canzon prima "La Spiritata" by Gabrieli; Toccata Cromaticha by Frescobaldi, Variations on "Warum betruebst du dich" by Scheidt and a Bach group consisting of the Fugue in E Flat, the Chorale-Preludes "An Wasserflussen Babylon," "Dies sind Fugue in A Minor.

The new organ was built by the Gress-Miles Organ Company of Princeton Junction and was designed in line with contemporary trends in organbuilding.

News Of The CHURCHES

LINK TO SCOTLAND SET For Witherspoon Memorial. Transatlantic cable will unite the congregations in Princeton University Chapel and St. George's Leigh Church, Paisley, Scotland, for some 30 minutes this Sunday in the bicentennial memorial service honoring John Witherspoon.

The Rev. John Witherspoon left St. George's after eleven years as its pastor to become, in the fall of 1768, the sixth president of Princeton University. He guided the then College of New Jersey for 26 years.

Participants in the 11 a.m. dialogue-service include Dr. Robert F. Goheen, Princeton's 16th president; the Rev. Ernest Gordon, dean of the chapel, who also came to this country from Paisley, and Mayor Henry S. Patterson of Princeton Borough.

Taking part in the program from St. George's will be Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, a 1919 graduate of Princeton; the Rev. John Gisbey, pastor; Dr. Talbot Rice, vice-principal of the University of Edinburgh, and prominent residents of Paisley, an industrial community of 98,000 near Glasgow, which traces its history back to the Sixth Century.

Warren Elmer, headmaster of St. Christopher's School, Richmond, Va., and a member of the Princeton class of 1942, will represent the university. The service will be broadcast live throughout Scotland by the BBC. In Princeton, WHWH will record the service for broadcast at 10:05 p.m.

Arrangements were initiated by the Rev. Mr. Gisbey and Dean Gordon in Scotland last summer. The dialogue-service between the two churches will be preceded by a brief regular order of worship separately, and concluded separately.

Widely Varied Career. Best known of Princeton's Eighteenth Century presidents, John Witherspoon blended a career in education, the ministry and public service. A delegate to the Continental Congress, he was the only clergy to sign the American Declaration of Independence.

During his Princeton administration, the college produced a United States president (James Madison), a vice-president (Aaron Burr Jr.), nine cabinet officers, 21 United Staes Senators, 39 Representatives, three Justices of the Supreme Court, 12 state governors and 39 judges. More than 110 of his 469 graduates became ministers.

Witherspoon, who held the presidency of Princeton until his death in 1794, traveled by horseback up and down the Atlantic seaboard from Boston to Williamsburg publicizing the college, and once even sailed to Jamaica to argue before Britons there the advantages of a Princeton education over a British one.

During his tenure, Nassau Hall served at different times as a barracks and hospital for Continental and British troops. It was the scene of the last stand of the British in the Battle of Princeton. In 1776, the first legislature of the State of New Jersey convened in the building, and from June to November 1783, when the Continental Congress was in session here, it was the capitol of the nation.

The telephone call linking the two congregations will be initiated from Scotland. Arrangements are being handled by American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its New Jersey affiliate in cooperation with the General Post Office in Scotland, under which Scotland's telephone service operates.

An estimated 1,500 are expected in the University Chapel. Some 2,000 will attend the service in the Paisley church.

THE MUSICAL PUPPET SHOW, "NOAH," First presented at First Presbyterian Church a year and a half ago by the Juniors, will be repeated this weekend in free performances at 7 p.m. Saturday and 5 and 7 p.m. on Sunday. Olsen, composer of children's music, wrote a new score especially for the production, and rehearsed the orchestra. Mrs. Stanley Taylor supervised puppet construction and assisted Miss Louise Goss, director of the total production.

Police said that Mrs. Portia Marshall, 227½ John Street, threw the mixture at her husband, George W. Marshall Jr. He, in turn, splashed some of the mixture on his wife, before she, police said, threw the remainder on him.

Police took the pair to Princeton Hospital where Mrs. Marshall was treated for burns and lacerations of the feet caused by broken glass. Mr. Marshall was placed in the intensive care unit for extensive burns about his face and body.

Whiskey Stolen from Club. Thirty bottles of whiskey were stolen during the weekend from the Springdale Golf Club on College Road West.

Police, however, acting on what they said was an anonymous tip, have recovered 23 of the bottles. They said the theft was still under investigation.

Sgt. Theodore T. Lewis and Pfl. Bernard Lenhardt investigated. They report that entry was made by breaking a window on a rear porch. Nothing else was taken.

Purse Taken. Georgianna L. Palmer, a clerk at the Tree Shop, 30 Moore Street, reported that her brown suede purse was stolen Thursday afternoon while she was waiting on customers. It contained personal papers and 36 cents.

She told police that three teenagers had asked to see some watches. When she went to get the watches in another room she noticed on her return that the three had left and her purse beneath the counter was missing.

BIRTHS

Two of a Kind. Twin girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. John Perna Jr., of 8 Cadillac Street, Hamilton Square, on October 15 in Princeton Hospital. Seventeen children were born at the hospital last week; seven were girls.

Daughters were also born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Warnock, Cherry Hill Road, October 13; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ludwig, 5 Church Street, Jamesburg, October 14; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cooney, 17 Edwards Drive, Hightstown, October 16; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mininger, Mobile City, Hightstown, October 17, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lockwood, Wyntbrook West Apartments, Hightstown, October 19.

PHS ELECTS NIXON

In Mock Election. Richard M. Nixon polled 928 out of a possible 1,416 votes cast and won a mock presidential election held by the students and faculty of Princeton High School, according to results published in the school newspaper, "The Tower." His total was more than 100 above the 325 votes polled by Vice-President Humphrey, but represented only 30% of the total. Nixon and Humphrey together polled only 53%.

Third party candidate George Wallace received 187, Senator Eugene McCarthy, 136; and Dick Gregory, 128. Other votes went to television comedian Pat Paulson, 55; Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, 43; Mayor John Lindsay, 13; Back Panther presidential candidate Eldridge Cleaver, 10; Socialist Labor candidate Fred Halstead, 7; Senator Edward Kennedy, 7; Georgia assemblyman Julian Bond, 6; and Senator George McGovern, 6.

About 80% of the 1,760 students voted in the election, organized by the editors of "The Tower." Another indication of their dissatisfaction with the two major parties was pointed out by the fact that 82% (800 students) gave their party preference as either "independent" or none at all. In a similar poll of the faculty, only 41 out of 103 voted, with Nixon and Humphrey receiving 16 a halfback Steve Brooks added Hun's sixth and seventh TDs—Brooks scoring from 35 yards out.

In all, Hun amassed 19 first downs to one for St. Joe's. It recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes and rolled to a 450-yard total offense. In turn, Hun's big line held the home team to minus yardage on the ground. "They'd have the ball three plays and then punt," said Waterman.

Peters finished with 159 yards in 12 carries. The game had been scheduled for Saturday but was postponed because of rain. It was the first meeting between the two schools.

PDS EDGES MONTCLAIR

Faces St. Bernards Next. "It was nice to win one. When you go for a while without one, you really learn to appreciate it."

The comment came from Princeton Day School football coach Dan Barren reflecting on his team's 12-8 triumph over Montclair School Monday, after suffering five consecutive losses, two this season and three last year. The win put the Panthers' record at 1-2 thus far, and gave them a strong chance of climbing to the .500 mark this Saturday against St. Bernards. Kick-off is 2 p.m. on the St. Bernards' field in Gladstone.

For one of the very few times in their short two-year history of varsity competition, the Panthers will enter the contest as favorites, something Barren wants his squad to forget. "The last thing we can afford to do after this victory is get cocky," he pointed out.

On the basis of comparative scores (which often turn out to be disastrously unreliable indicators) the Panthers have a definite edge over winless St. Bernards eleven, Montclair, the common opponent, whipped St. Bernards, 25-7, breaking open a tight ball game in the fourth quarter. Other outings resulted in a 27-19 loss to Solebury and a scoreless tie with Pope John High School of Sparta.

Last year the Blue and White scored its first win of the season against St. Bernards, 18-0. This time out a victory is equally important to give the team some much-needed momentum for St. Andrews, which in all probability will arrive at the November 2d contest undefeated.

PDS Shows Desire. Perhaps the desire that propelled the team to a hard-fought triumph against Montclair will be maintained. "The whole team had desire," Barren commented, citing especially the defensive work in the fourth quarter that stopped a Montclair drive 25 yards short of a touchdown that would have won the game.

The offense also went well, as PDS' ground game came to life for the first time, producing two tallies in the first half and other sustained drives in the second. The switch of Craig Page from quarterback to halfback proved highly effective, as the senior co-captain gained 100 yards in 25 carries, scoring both touchdowns along the way.

The first came with only a few minutes gone in the first period. Defensive end Lew Bowers, playing on a shaky ankle, made his first of two fumble recoveries on Montclair's second play from scrimmage on its 26-yard line. Four plays later, Page went off tackle for 15 yards and the score.

Early in the second period, the Panthers began to move again. Junior Erik Heggen, who did a highly capable job replacing Page at quarterback, flipped a screen pass to Rick Judge, who scampered for 45 yards to Montclair's 12-yard line. Page scored later from three yards out.

Midway through the second period, PDS found itself on its own one-yard line on third down and facing a strong wind. Instead of kicking into the gale and giving Montclair excellent field position, assistant coach Dick Burnes suggested a deliberate safety. Page carried out the plan, which gave Montclair two points, but PDS got a free kick from its 20. Montclair got the ball deep in its territory, and was unable to move.

Later in the quarter, however, the losers intercepted a PDS aerial, ran it back to the Panthers' 15, and subsequently scored. PDS had failed on its two conversion attempts, and Montclair also missed. The Panthers drove to the Montclair 10 yard line, before time ran out.

In addition to Page, who he praised for playing "one hell-uva game," Barren also cited the blocking of Ashby Adams and Keith Bash, which helped Page move. Sophomore fullback Terry Booth performed well, contributing 61 yards in 15 carries, and making several tackles on defense. Tom Spain, also stood out defensively, aiding in his tackles and intercepting a pass.

piece and McCarthy and Gregory 4 each.

"The Tower" also published the results of a poll taken 20 years ago, when 419 out of 739 students voted for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and the two major parties had 87% of the vote between them, leaving only 13% to be considered as a "protest" vote. This included 41 votes for Strom Thurmond, States Rights Party, 33 for Henry Wallace, Progressive Party; and 10 for Norman Thomas, Socialist Party.

GREGORY TO SPEAK

At Trenton Rally. Dick Gregory, the Peace-Freedom Alternative's presidential candidate, will speak Thursday in Trenton, at a rally beginning at 1 p.m. at City Hall, corner of East State and Stockton Streets. A chartered bus will make a round trip to the rally from Princeton, to leave at noon from Clay and Witherspoon Streets.

David Frost, founder and leader of the New Jersey Political Alliance and Gregory's running mate in New Jersey will also speak in Trenton. The group's platform calls for an end to the Vietnam war, an end to racism, and increased attempts to meet the needs of the poor.

FINANCE DRIVE PLANNED

By Women Voters. More than 700 letters to prospective donors have been mailed in the League of Women Voters annual finance drive, with a goal this year of $2,500. Mrs. T. Darrah Thomas, finance chairman, has planned the campaign, which will kick off Saturday as volunteers call upon prospective donors who have not responded to the letters.

Assisting in the drive are members of the Men's Advisory Committee, including Dr. Henry Abrams, Thomas P. Cook, Herbert B. Espy, Tristam Johnson, Jack Schuss and William Selden.

DINNER PLANNED

For Mercer County YMCA's. The Princeton YMCA will hold the Mercer County Federation of YMCA's annual World Service Dinner Monday at 7 p.m., to feature a speech by Nicholas Patinos, a YMCA worker in South and Central America.

The Mercer County Federation, including groups from Ewing, Hightstown, Hamilton, Lawrenceville, Pennington and Princeton, supports YMCA's in Quito, Ecuador, and Torreon, Mexico.

The dinner program will also include Dr. Elmer Homrighausen, from Princeton Theological Seminary, the YMCA's World Service Representative to the Central Atlantic Area, and Dr. Bayard Dodge, a Princeton resident.

Students from the Westminster choir college will provide music at the dinner.

STUDENTS FOREGO CANDY

For UNICEF Halloween. Area high school students will lead a Halloween drive to solicit funds for UNICEF, conducting a door-to-door campaign Thursday evening, October 31.

Proceeds will go to needy children from Biafra to Borneo. Area children will use orange and black UNICEF cartons for their solicitation, distributed by a network of high school students serving as "block captains." Formerly, the cartons were distributed through churches.

Those interested in participating should contact one of the programs leaders by Sunday. Area students involved include Barbara McConnell, 921-6699; Dedi Price, 921-9473; Karen Fitzpatrick, 921-2190; Ed Lechner, 924-7034; and Sheila Murphy, 924-2841.

VOTERS' PROGRAM SET

By Lawrence Groups. Issues and candidates will be examined Monday in a Candidates' Night at 8 p.m. in the Lawrence Junior School Cafeteria, co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Lawrence Township and the Lawrence Township Jaycees.

Gerald Reilly, a community services officer with the state's Department of Community Affairs, will give his observations of the Council-Manager Plan E, at work in several of the state's communities, followed by a question-and-answer period.

Candidates for Township Committee will then make proposals for decreasing sectionalism among township residents. The meeting will be opened to questions from the audience after the candidates comment spontaneously on two other questions proposed by the co-sponsors.

The township's candidates for tax assessor will also be introduced. Informal conversation with all the candidates will be featured at the conclusion of the meeting.

Freeholders on Radio. A round table discussion of issues raised by area listeners will be held Tuesday night from 8:05 to 9 p.m. on radio station WHWH, featuring candidates for the Mercer County Board of Chosen Freeholders. The talks will be sponsored by the Mercer County League of Women Voters, which will open the discussion with several spontaneous queries.

It does things other small cars shouldn't do.

Cornering at high speeds is one of the last things to expect small cars to do, successfully. Unless it's a SAAB, the out-of-the-ordinary small car. Out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves and other drivers' mistakes. Is that all SAAB has? Not on your life. Most ordinary cars don't give you, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features. As an optional extra, our new V-4 engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE. SAAB You can drive it like a big car.

It's clear Tom Hartmann and Jim Floyd are superbly qualified to serve with distinction on Princeton Township Committee. The present committee includes no match for Tom Hartmann's knowledgeability in working with state and federal resources. Who else can match Jim Floyd's capabilities in working with the disadvantoged and his experience with Princeton's particular social problems? And both men have displayed a gift for working and inspiring our young people.,

In two months of campaigning Tom and Jim have shown that they are responsible coretakers of whot we have and ambitious to get Princeton its fair share of state and federal resources.

Maybe this is why they've become such newsmokers. Or maybe it's the walking tours they've taken, covering over half the homes in the Township, asking for your opinions, your support, giving you their ideas.

Maybe this is why sa many township people, teenagers, undergraduates and graduate students, housewives, professors, busy professionals have devoted more working time and more money than ever befare to a local campaign.

Maybe, too, it's because they reolize local government is more important than ever and that Tom and Jim are the best kind of men to have on Princeton Township Committee.
Can you think of a better reason?

A COTTAGE IN THE WESTERN TOWNSHIP: tucked away in a quiet spot on over an acre of high land with all sorts of trees. Built nearly forty years ago by its only owner, it was thoroughly redone as to heating, plumbing and wiring in 1962. The living room opens off a broad covered porch, and there's a separate dining room and modern kitchen. Two ground floor bedrooms and new tiled bath. One good finished bedroom on the second floor and plenty of room for one more and another bath. Basement, two car garage and small garden house. A bit of a sleeper in a lovely location. Asking $43,500

$98,500 IS A LOT OF MONEY and when you spend it for a house there should be more than just a "good deal" involved. It ought to be a love affair with everything as perfect as you'd always dreamed. If you feel that way, this is probably the house: Wonderfully built, meticulously maintained and luxuriously appointed two story of brick and clapboard on two lavishly landscaped acres in Princeton's Western Section. Graceful entrance hall is flanked by partysized living room with fireplace and cozy study also with fireplace. Formal dining room opens through sliding glass doors to a stone floored covered terrace overlooking the heated swimming pool. Glass walled garden room. Super deluxe kitchen, laundry-mud room and powder room. 5 twin bedrooms and 3 full baths on the second floor. Loads of accessible storage space. Two car garage. Central air-conditioning. Really quite a house and more than worth the asking price.

SOFTLY WEATHERED CEDAR SHAKES AND BRIGHT RED SHUTTERS: give this house a sprightly air of good humor. Well-thought out center hall plan combines living room, dining room, paneled family room with fireplace, modern country kitchen, laundry and lavatory into a very workable first floor room arrangement. 5 bedrooms and 2 baths on the second floor. Attic, basement and two car garage. Lots of thick, new carpeting and central air-conditioning make this a most special offering. An acre of ground in a nearby country location. $48,000

NELSON RIOGE . . . only a few minutes from the center of Princeton, this long, low white one-story home offers a great deal of people interested in large living areas for entertainment . . . or work. The house has foyer, living living areas for entertainment . . . or work. The house has foyer, living room, large dining room, modern kitchen, and a vast family room with wall-to-wall carpeting. Both the den and the screened breezeway have fireplaces. Master bedroom with dressing room and bath, 2 small bedrooms and bath adjoin the den, which could also be a study room for children. Game room in basement. 1½ acres of land. (*) $39,500

MANY EXTRAS . . . here is a beautiful home in a very nice new neighborhood in Lawrenceville where your children can find many, many playmates. 5 bedrooms, 3 baths, central air-conditioning. However, a mere recital of rooms and other such details will never give you the true picture of this property. What makes this fine home so unusual is the fact that the owners have put so much more into their house — base-board heat, for example, so that the extra investment in duct work enables them to freshen the indoor air in Winter when they entertain; wall-to-wall carpeting; a pair of real old carriage lamps beside the front door; a larger than usual deck outside the dining room; a TV antenna with rotor; special landscaping . . . the list is really quite long! Add up all the extras, and you'll agree that this is an excellent value. $47,500

NEAR THE LAKE . . .and with central air-conditioning too! On a high lot with many lofty shade trees, this fine home will appeal to people who appreciate perfection. The living room, with its high ceiling, companionable fireplace and the opulent wall-to-wall carpeting, has a balcony leading to 3 bedrooms (one, extra large, for it was planned to be two) and two baths. The dining room is very spacious, and the very modern kitchen has plenty of space for table and chairs. Downstairs: family room with bar, guest (or maid's) room and bath. Two-car attached garage. In the attic, a darkroom and lots of storage space. Outdoors: a large swimming pool in a completely fenced yard, beautifully landscaped. (*) $65,000

LAWRENCE . . . two-story stone and frame Colonial, located in a fine residential neighborhood with many towering trees. Large living & dining rooms. Lovely new kitchen, plus butler's pantry. Two fireplaces, 6 bedrooms, 4 baths and powder room. Located near a college and across the road from a golf club, this fine home is a place you'll love to live in and always be proud of. $79,500

BROOKSTONE . . . in one of Princeton's most beautiful wooded areas, this large brick and frame residence, with central air-conditioning, has a spacious foyer, large living room with fireplace, dining room, library with fireplace, modern kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, powder room and, on the second floor, a huge upstairs family room. Two acres of land, with beautiful trees and shrubs. This is a large house, designed and built for people of means. The owners have enjoyed it during the years their children were growing up and going to school, and now it is ready for you. You'll benefit from all the thoughtful care this fine home has had, and you'll always be thankful for the landscaping which makes the setting so beautiful . . . and so perfect! $115,000

(*) Many more fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range. Ample parking space for our clients.

COUNTRY ESTATE

Only fifteen minutes from town we can offer you approximately 10 beautiful acres with a panoramic view of Hopewell Valley. The house, one of the oldest in the Hopewell area, has been nicely restored.

Enter into a center hall with a "parlor" with fireplace (antique lovers will appreciate the craftsmanship of the mantel) on one side and the formal living room on the other. The dining room has the old-time walk-in fireplace and open beamed ceiling.

A small den leads to the modernized kitchen with a charming window in the ceiling to let in the country sunshine. Children's eating pantry.

The big barn and other outbuildings are in good condition and the acres are fenced to contain horses.

Above the house, on the hillside, is a sparkling kidney-shaped swimming pool and you feel close to heaven with nothing to see but trees and rolling hills.
